Wheat Sale Okay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Wednesday night approved the sale of U.S. wheat to Russia and Communist nations of Eastern Europe. He spoke in the terms of transactions ranging from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000.

This could mean disposal of perhaps 200,000,000 bushels of wheat at world prices through private channels.

Kennedy said the U.S. obviously would benefit. He ruled out any sales to Cuba or Communist China.

In anti-climactic fashion, the president made the long-expected announcement of a shift in U.S. policy toward trade with the Communists at a press conference.

Wheat Trouble

Why Sudden Annoyance? Ottawa Asks Washington

By ARTHUR MACKENZIE
OTTAWA (CP) — United States criticism about Canadian wheat price patterns had authorities here puzzled Wednesday.

Concern whether the U.S. intends to launch a price war between the two main wheat exporting countries of the West was mixed with some puzzlement about why the Americans

had suddenly become annoyed. (See story, Page 3.)

There has been no change in the pricing policy of the Canadian wheat board and none is anticipated, Trade Minister Sharp told the House of Commons.

Aides said the trade minister planned to telephone U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman later in the day to seek some clarification. Views of the U.S. agriculture department were made known to the external affairs department here by the U.S. embassy, but Canadian sources hesitated to call it an American protest.

OVER PLANT

The U.S. says Canada seeks to keep world prices down at a time when they should be rising and Canadian officials say this is in the long-term benefit of the North American farmer who might otherwise over-plant and hurry along another surplus problem.

Even with brisk exports, Canada expects to have a surplus of about 500,000,000 bushels at the end of the current crop year next July 31—thanks to the record wheat harvest of nearly 720,000,000 bushels.

FOR DELIVERY

Further, the U.S. seems suddenly concerned about the Canadian wheat board practice of selling wheat at existing prices for delivery over the next few months.

For example, the record $300,000,000 Russian wheat purchase is on this format. The two agreements with Red China have operated through individual separate contracts from time to time, charging current prices in the individual contracts for wheat to be delivered over two or three months.

SOLD TO JAPAN

American anger is believed to have leaped when grain was sold to Japan recently at current prices for later delivery. This is regarded by the Americans apparently as a pegging action on wheat, which they would like to see increase in price as demand continues brisk.

History Repeats Itself

Portrait of history repeating itself shows "Mrs. O'Leary's Cow" of Chicago fire fame, kicking over the lantern, and "Mrs. O'Leary," too. Unheeded role is played by a shocked Clara Taylor, 1983 Canadian Dairy Princess, while equally surprised Mrs. D. S. McMillan looks on. However Mrs. O'Leary hung onto the lamp and so fire ensued. Event took place during parade in Victoria marking fire prevention week, yesterday. See Page 2.—(William A. Boucher.)

Tenth of Second

Time to Pause On October 31

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The earth is slowing down fast. So fast, in fact, that world's finest timekeepers are going to have to set the hands of their clocks back a tenth of a second.

Announcement of the clock adjustment was made jointly yesterday by the National Bureau of Standards and the Naval Observatory.

Eight other nations with whom the United States has agreement on what time it is will make the same adjustment. The effective moment is "Zero Hours Universal Time November 1, 1963," or 3 p.m. Pacific Standard Time Oct. 31.

The whirling globe, for reasons unknown, speeds up or slows down its rotational rate from time to time. The period of rotation, as determined by astronomical observations, can be accurately clocked by atomic time pieces first developed in 1955.

Both the U.S. Navy and the bureau use atomic clocks as master controls for the time standards they broadcast periodically for the benefit of scientists and navigators all over the world.

Poison River

TOWNS VANISH

BELLUNO, Italy (AP)—A gigantic landslide smashed the 873-foot-high Vaiont Dam Wednesday night and a huge flood all but wiped out four towns with 4,300 residents in the Piave River valley of northeast Italy.

Officials said 300 bodies had been found by dawn after the collapse of the world's third highest concrete dam sent millions of tons of stored water over the sleeping towns.

Trustee Action Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — Dropping normal rules, the Commons Wednesday swung into speedy action behind the government to consider legislation that would impose a five-year, all-powerful trusteeship over maritime unions in Canada.

Appealing for all-party backing for the unprecedented intervention by government in union affairs, Labor Minister MacEachern warned that the Great Lakes situation "may grow worse before it gets better."

THE ONLY WAY

The three-man trusteeship was proposed by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of Vancouver as the only way of cleaning up lawlessness, corruption, violence and strife blamed on the Seafarers' International Union of Canada and its "cruel, dishonest, greedy, power-hungry" president, Hal C. Banks.

Police here, 10 miles south of the dam, first said the 873-foot dam, third highest concrete dam in the world, had collapsed.

But later reports said a gigantic landslide rolling off an adjacent mountain had plunged into the reservoir behind the dam and pushed thousands of tons of water over the top. Later, they said the dam had broken.

The flood swept away a building materials factory with supplies of potassium cyanide, making the Piave River a stream of poison.

SEVERAL SCORES

The Italian news agency ANSA said first reports were that at least several scores of people were killed.

The dam, finished in 1900 was a high, tapered structure narrowing to a thin base. It was not on the river itself but held back water in a side reservoir.

HALF A DOZEN

At least a half-dozen other communities to the immediate area about 10 miles north of here were listed in the first reports as having been hit.

Dock Strike

No Peace in Sight

MONTREAL (CP) — Longshoremen angrily rejected strike - settlement proposals Wednesday, a day of rapid-fire developments in the trade-strangling walkout.

While ships, some of them slated to carry wheat to Russia, queued up at anchorages in Montreal and Quebec, these were some of the developments:

SIT DOWN

1. Judge Rene Lippe, federal mediator whose proposals were rejected by the strikers at a mass meeting, invited representatives of the longshoremen and of the Shipping Federation of Canada to sit down with him again at the bargaining table.

2. Gangs of longshoremen roamed through the Montreal harbor area casting off the mooring lines of ships at docks and ordering them to move to mid-river anchorages downstream. Police eventually cleared the gangs from the waterfront.

3. The longshoremen appealed to the international offices of their union to order sympathy strikes in Saint John, N.B., and Halifax.

4. Two large liners rode at anchor off Quebec City while

Peewed Passengers Await Debarkation

QUEBEC (CP)—Capt. W. S. (Bill) Main, skipper of the Empress of Canada, says his passengers "are getting a bit peeved" about a delay in debarkation caused by the St. Lawrence River dock strike.

The pride of the Canadian Pacific Steamships Atlantic fleet was anchored Wednesday night about 13 miles downstream from the harbor here. Aboard were 400 passengers from Europe.

The 27,000-ton vessel made an attempt to dock Tuesday but it was unsuccessful. Striking stevedores lined the pier and prevented the ship's seamen from handling the mooring lines.

Capt. Main moved away to an anchorage off the island of Orleans and said in a ship-to-shore telephone interview: "We'll have to wait here until the strike ends."

A spokesman for the shipping line said there are supplies aboard to last 100 days if necessary.

"There's plenty of good food and good drink."

The passengers, he said, are spending their time at the normal shipboard pleasures, movies, dancing and deck sports when the weather permits.

No estimate was available on the daily cost of the delay to the company.

Jacque's Yacht Fails to Arrive

LEVKOS ISLAND, Greece (AP)—The whereabouts of the yacht Christina, carrying Mrs. John F. Kennedy on a vacation cruise, became a mystery Wednesday night.

There had been reports the vessel would come to this Ionian Sea island, but she did not appear. Rainstorms and heavy seas plagued the Greek islands during the day. It was possible the Christina—a converted Canadian corvette—had put into one of the smaller islands to wait out the storm.

Tipster Shows Way To Terror Bomb

MONTREAL (UPI) — Police found a terrorist bomb late Wednesday in the post office of the residential suburb of Ville Jacques Cartier, and detonated it safely.

Acting on an anonymous telephone tip, police found the bomb in a small front office in the Canada postal building. Detective F. Ritchie whisked the package to a nearby vacant lot, where it was touched off under protective mauling and "in a big blue flame" by construction company explosives experts.

"I saw the package as soon as I went in the building," Ritchie said. "But I didn't know how much time was left before it went off. I took a chance, and I was lucky."

Ritchie said the words "thermostat bomb" were scrawled on one side of the package, and the letters RQI, written on the other, RQI was believed to stand for Rassemblement Quebec Libre, a militant separatist group that recently announced its intention to carry on the work of the defunct Quebec Liberation Front.

Canada Just Like Cuba, Says Green

Warhead Shift 'Tragic Blunder'

The government's decision to give the U.S. permission to store defensive nuclear warheads in its Canadian-leased bases was termed "a tragic blunder" last night by former Conservative external affairs minister Howard Green. (See story, Page 3.)

He told the Colonist in a telephone interview the move will put Canada in the same position with regard to the U.S. as Cuba was last fall when the Russians installed nuclear weapons on Cuban territory.

"The move is another tragic blunder by the present government. It comes at a time when there is a lessening of tension in the world brought about by the agreement to end nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space," Mr. Green said.

He said the foreign ministers of the three nuclear powers more recently announced their countries will not use outer space for launching nuclear weapons.

"Both these steps were advocated by the former Conservative government and under our (Conservative) government Canada took the lead in trying to bring about a reduction in world tension," Mr. Green said.

He charged the Pearson government has moved in the opposite direction, first by getting nuclear warheads for Canadian forces and now by allowing U.S. forces to store their own nuclear weapons in Canada.

"It is obvious Canada will have no control over the use of these warheads by the American forces and Mr. Pearson's latest action has put our country in very much the same position with regard to the United States as Cuba was last fall when the Russians installed nuclear weapons on Cuban territory."

Britain Puts New Bite In Sleeping Scotsman

LONDON (UPI) — National Health Service officials disclosed yesterday they had approved a new set of false teeth for a Scotsman who swallowed his old ones while sleeping.

Wheat War Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States threatened Wednesday to launch a trade war against Canada because of Canada's policy of offering long-range fixed prices in order to sell big wheat contracts with Communist and democratic countries.

U.S. agriculture department spokesman said the American government has officially protested Canadian policies in the strongest terms. He made clear the U.S. is considering a variety of measures that could injure Canadian wheat sales for years ahead.

He explained that with indications of a world wheat shortage this year, the U.S. concluded world prices might have drifted upwards by as much as 15 cents a bushel.

Instead, Canada sold wheat to Red China and Russia at six cents a bushel below the prevailing summer world price. However, what irked the U.S. most was the alleged subterfuge by which Canada obtained a slice of the Japanese wheat market.

Without tipping the U.S. which had spent money promoting the Japanese market for wheat, the Canadians allegedly negotiated with the Japanese in secret, offering about 800,000 tons of wheat at about five cents a bushel above the price asked the Soviet Union.

Warheads in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson announced Wednesday in the Commons that Canada has given the United States permission to store defensive nuclear warheads for jet interceptors at the American bases at Goose Bay, Labrador, and Harmon Field, Nfld.

All three opposition leaders complained that the new agreement, like the Aug. 16 Canada-U.S. nuclear custody-and-control arrangement covering Canadian forces, will not be made public.

SO SKETCHY
Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the available information is so sketchy that MPs cannot know whether "the sovereignty of Canada is protected or whether Canada is placed in a subservient position."

He said Mr. Pearson had promised to negotiate out of a nuclear role for Canada but that the government is spending millions of dollars for storage of nuclear warheads in this country.

ANOTHER LINK
T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said the new agreement "forgets another link in the chain which now is binding Canada to the U.S. as a military satellite." Canada was being "boxed more and more into a nuclear role."

Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, said full information should be given to the Commons defence committee. The government should be pushing ahead with a non-nuclear mobile defence force.

Mr. Pearson said it would be "quite improper" to make the agreement public for security reasons.

He said there is adequate provision for joint control over the nuclear warheads at the U.S. leased bases. The agreement was based substantially on a draft prepared by the former Conservative government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said hotly this latter statement was not in accord with the facts.

Dynamite Case

Maximum Terms Birmingham Sequel

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Maximum sentences were imposed by a city judge yesterday on two white men accused of illegally possessing dynamite during recent racial bombings.

Judge Earl Langner convicted Robert Chambliss, 59, and John Hall, 35, sentenced each to six months in jail and fined them $100 apiece.

The judgment was the same as that handed down Tuesday for Charles Cagle, 22.

The three men, all with Ku Klux Klan backgrounds, were arrested in the wake of several racial bombings including one which killed four Negro girls as they attended Sunday school.

A tear gas grenade thrown into Freedom Rock Baptist Church brought Negroes swarming out through doors and windows. Police pursued them for blocks in all directions, throwing tear gas grenades.

Bullseyes Galore

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — "I never miss," Hamilton marksman John Cnepyha said Wednesday after he had killed a squirrel from 10 paces with his .22 rifle.

He didn't miss the squirrel, and he didn't miss two windows, two "priceless" pieces of 200-year-old china and a plaster wall.

Ocean Spells Doom For Raging Flora

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane regime, hurling new defiance Flora, one of the most savage destroyers in history, raced toward its doom in the open Atlantic last night and the Caribbean counted its dead in the thousands.

The death toll the mighty storm left on Cuba and Haiti may never be known, but reports indicated it may go higher than 9,000. Damage estimates approached $300,000,000.

Flora nailed the Atlantic with 115-mile-an-hour winds, and a weather forecaster predicted: "Two more days, then the cold air will kill her."

Negroes Flee Tear Gas

PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — Police raided a Negro church with tear gas yesterday, after breaking up an attempted teenagers' "sit-in" at a white high school, with tear gas and electric cattle prods.

Story of a young man on the way up (or The shortest distance between two Grandmas is TCA!)

Even a four-year-old fellow who "travels" regularly by space ship to Mars and the Moon gets dreamy about the prospect of a real 9-mile-a-minute giant jet ride to see his Grandmas. And with good reason—the thrill of TCA DC-8 jet flight when he went to see his other grandmother last year! 'Course it wasn't all A-O-K. For instance, the food was so good on the airplane, he had no cause for complaint...and his father hardly talked to him all during the flight (the big, comfortable, tilt-backable seats invite sleep)...in fact the trip is so short—no matter where you go—a guy has no time to get into trouble! Party First?

IT IS REPORTED by the Canadian Press that the Ottawa government has decided to cancel the $375,000,000 frigate building program initiated by the former administration. If this proves correct, Canadians might well suspect that once again narrow political partisanship has been allowed to override the country's national interests and international responsibilities.

Sadly, such occurrences are not unknown in Canada's political history. One has but to hark back to the conscription issue of two world wars to find an example of this type of operation, while even more recently the scrapping of the RCAF Arrow can be adjudged as such another.

Indeed, if the Liberal government carries out its anticipated plan of calling a halt to the present naval shipbuilding program it will parallel the much criticized action of the Diefenbaker government when it destroyed all hope of the RCAF ever being fully equipped with Canadian-designed and Canadian-built aircraft.

The reasons put forward by the Conservative government for its decision at that time were, though many, unsatisfactory. Canadian military leaders, almost en bloc, solidly supported the idea of a truly Canadian aircraft for the air force. The Arrow had already proved itself in its tests to be an outstanding plane well able to carry out the defensive role designated Canada within NATO and the North American defence structures.

Nevertheless both public and military opinion was scorned and it was scrapped, only to be replaced by inferior American aircraft a year or so later. Whatever the real reason for this confused planning, many Canadians across the country believed—and still do—that the only reason the Arrow program was cancelled was simply because it had been originally instituted by a Liberal government.

If the Pearson government now discards the present RCN shipbuilding program it will be accused of doing the same thing. Certainly there can be no thought of entertaining the suggestion that the nation's military advisers in such matters are against the program set by the Conservative government.

On the contrary Canada's best-informed and most senior naval officer, Vice-Admiral Herbert Rayner, has already told the Commons defence committee that the new ships are needed urgently to meet Canadian commitments to NATO.

The naval chief of staff has even gone so far as to suggest that a crash program be introduced to speed their production.

If the Liberal government acts against such expert advice and recommendations it will have some tall explaining to do.

A Dilemma

THE sudden illness of Mr. Macmillan on the eve of the British Conservative Party conference will throw that gathering into a dilemma. There will be concern for his health for he is personally well liked by his party even if the Profumo affair has strengthened the feeling that he should step down for another leader.

His illness will temper the sharp barbs of criticism about his leadership, but it will probably strengthen the move to have him replaced. The British prime minister may be forced to inactivity for as long as three months, it is said, which of itself may postpone the expected general election but which nevertheless may invite his resignation all the more.

Events often have a way of settling the affairs of men and parties. Mr. Macmillan will not be at Blackpool to fight for his own position with his acknowledged political skill, and so illness may prove to be his valedictory.

Politically the atmosphere is tenuous, with the Labor Party waiting only on the election to prove its high favor with the electorate. This cannot be taken for granted, for the polls are often unpredictable, but in all probability the Conservative conference will conclude that at so critical a juncture it cannot afford to have a leadership hiatus but instead must name a successor to Mr. Macmillan.

No Special Favor

IT IS not to be thought for one instant that the federal government's decision to allow the sale of large blocks of hydro-electric power to the United States is purely for the benefit of Mr. Bennett and British Columbia. It is also needed by other provinces—including Quebec and Newfoundland.

The Columbia River project is only one of several large hydro developments that require the sale of power to the United States to make them economically feasible for many years to come.

The Manicouagan River project in Quebec now in the early construction stage is to produce eventually 6,000,000 kilowatts of electricity, and this is in excess of what the Quebec Hydro authority will need for its domestic use in the immediate future. Quebec Hydro's hope is that part of the Manicouagan electricity will be exported to New York State.

Another big eastern development, that of harnessing the raging Hamilton River in Labrador, also depends upon the permission to export power to the United States.

These three projects themselves—the Columbia, the Manicouagan and the Hamilton—represent capital expenditure of about $5,000,000,000. Because of the tremendous boost such construction work would give the country, plus the fact that the sale of power surplus to domestic requirement would go some way to balancing our trading accounts with the United States made a change of Liberal power policy almost essential.

As Mr. Ray Williston, B.C. minister of water resources, points out in welcoming the Liberal change of front, the export of a continuous source of energy like hydro-electric power is much more logical than selling oil and gas, both of which are expendable, and to which the government long ago gave its blessing.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships,
and sealing wax ...
By TOM TAYLOR

ANOTHER design for a Canadian flag has found its way to my desk. All sorts of things pour into a newspaper office, you know; in a profession that makes one despair for its literally impossible to read them all.

A swift glance and then, I'm afraid, the wastepaper basket is the only solution for much of this overwhelming torrent. This piece deserves a better fate, though, for it means someone is bent, like the Legionary, on putting his mind and soul to the always shimmering flag question.

For the veterans who maintain that interesting monthly, of course, there is only one answer—the retention of the Red Ensign.

There was a time a year or so back when yours truly was equally absorbed with the subject, but he has grown somewhat academic about it now. He does not expect to see the issue resolved soon, if at all, despite Mr. Pearson's announced intention of doing something positive about a national flag within the next two years.

If he is wise, perhaps, it will be one of those things a government never gets round to. Of course he mightn't last that long in office and then he couldn't be assailed for default.

Personally I think the Native Sons, who argue for a flag untrammelled by connotations of inferiority, real or imagined, and want an emblem that is home-grown, as it were, and without insignia that confuses a separate identity, have a good case. Were I a Briton I'd consider Canada was flying a flag that didn't really belong to it.

On the other hand the Red Duster satisfies me quite well, so you see I have a split personality on the subject.

However, it's interesting to note what the promoter of the flag reaching my desk has to say. Having gone to all the trouble of designing a new emblem and posting its details all across the country, which I presume he has done, it is not meet he should be ignored.

On the printed page which contains his design, in appropriate colors, are the words: "I believe in Canada . . . its historic past . . . its potential growth . . . its future role in world affairs."

Offhand I don't quite see the connection, for I would think most good Canadians believe in their country, its past and its future even if they never gave a thought to a new flag. But to the flag design itself. It is, as the designer says, uncluttered, is a basic as set to all flags. B.C.'s own flag is sadly lacking in this respect. The simpler the better is the motto for a flag—to which most nations subscribe. This makes the emblem easily recognized, one of the chief values of a flag.

The design we are discussing has a red maple leaf centered on a pure white background, with narrow blue bars at the oblong ends.

Very plain, you will observe, but arresting by its very simplicity.

The blue bars represent the oceans on the Atlantic and Pacific shores, the white portion the vast open spaces of the country, and the maple leaf, of course, the now well-established symbol of Canada.

Not a bad design at all, really. I would send it on to Mr. Pearson, just in case it would ease his burden, except that I suppose its creator has himself already done so.

But I have told you about it so that, if you will, you may absorb yourself with this design or perhaps paste it into your scrapbook. I feel sure it won't be the least worthy of the items which commonly fill such albums.

And, of course, if you have a mind to you can always write me and say whether you turn your thumb up or down.

International Commentary

The Chinese-Russian Feud

By ELIZABETH BARKER
from London

THE dispute between the Soviet Union and Communist China has reached the point where it is beginning to have far-reaching international repercussions.

The conflict between the two biggest Communist States has, perhaps, a special interest for the developing countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America. These are, in the Communist view, the countries where the "national liberation struggle" is still being waged; this "struggle" is one of the key points in the dispute between Moscow and Peking. In fact, Russia and China are competing, on a world-wide scale, for the position of leader and champion of the developing countries.

Yet this struggle for power and influence between the two Communist giants sometimes takes such crude, outworn or even absurd forms that it must, in the long run, lower their stature. It is unlikely that the young nations of Africa, or the people of Asia or Latin America, will be able to believe in the moral authority, political wisdom or infallibility either of China or of Russia, after hearing the increasingly abusive terms in which each is assailing the other.

The "monolithic" front which the Communist bloc used to present to the outside world—however torn by internal conflicts—may have been repelled and frightened, but it was certainly impressive. The present Sino-Soviet slanging match is not.

Two recent instances show how far this has moved from the realms of lofty theoretical argument. One was the train incident of September 7 at the Russian-Chinese frontier station at Nushki, when Soviet custom officials confiscated from Chinese citizens publications said to be anti-Soviet. This led to Soviet charges of "hooliganism"—and worse—against the Chinese, and to Chinese counter-charges of Soviet brutality to Chinese citizens.

A more serious issue was the dispute over Sinkiang, the vast Chinese western border province, once very much under Soviet influence. On September 6 the Chinese press declared that in April and May 1962, Soviet "organs and personnel" in Sinkiang carried out large-scale subversive activities in the ill region, and "enticed and coerced" several thousands of Chinese citizens into going into the Soviet Union. The Soviet government—the Chinese press said—had refused a Chinese demand for their repatriation on the pretext of "legality" and "humanitarianism".

The Soviet reply took two weeks to prepare. Then the newspaper Kommunisticheskaya Pravda printed detailed personal statements by four refugees—members of racial minorities—from Sinkiang about the ill treatment and persecution which they said they had suffered from the Chinese authorities.

The atmosphere of the Communist world—it can no longer be called a bloc—is therefore thick and heavy with accusations and counter-accusations about matters quite unconnected with Communist doctrine. The theorists of Communism always talked a great deal about the inherent contradictions of capitalism which must inevitably lead to war between capitalist states. In recent years this talk has seemed singularly out-of-date and unconvincing. On the other hand, the contradictions of Communism—or rather between two Communist states—seems to be growing deeper and wider every day.

At the same time, Communist theory, instead of serving as a unifying dogma, is being used by each side as a savage weapon against the other. In particular, the Chinese accuse the Soviet leaders of abandoning or betraying the national liberation struggle, and of seeking to preserve the status quo under the name of peaceful co-existence. The Russians accuse the Chinese of "un-Marxist" behaviour in placing the national liberation struggle above the struggle between capitalism and Communism, of which—the Russians say—peaceful co-existence is one form.

At the recent meeting in Cyprus of the Afro-Asian solidarity organization, which was mainly devoted to the theme of national liberation, the Chinese delegation issued statements, on arrival and departure, which the Russians declared to be slanderous fabrications. The Soviet delegation issued a counter-statement reaffirming support for the national liberation struggle.

For the developing nations, this strife between their would-be leaders must be distasteful and disillusioning. They may also notice that neither China nor Russia supports the national struggle as an end in itself or in the interests of the people concerned. They used to use it as a weapon in their struggle against capitalism; now they use it as a weapon in their struggle against each other.

The Goldwater Boom

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE Goldwater balloon is going up so fast that it is almost out of sight of this fog-bound capital. The propulsion comes from many sources, not the least of which is the Senator's own driving power fed by the growing conviction of his followers that he is the man of destiny.

Euphoria is the only word to describe the atmosphere being created around the country in the Goldwater-for-President movement. The true believers have ceased to count the number of delegate votes necessary to give their hero the Republican nomination. Taking that for granted, they are now counting the electoral votes that will give him victory over President Kennedy.

To some of the pros in the party this seems a bit premature. They can see several dangers in the early inflation of the Goldwater boom. One obviously is timing. There will be so many months for the opposition—in both parties—to centre fire on the balloon as the full light of publicity falls on it. Up until quite recently almost no one, including the Senator, took the Presidential boom seriously.

But a greater danger lies in the manoeuvre which Goldwater seems to be undertaking. His critics, and even some of his friendly backers, believe he is trying to make a 180-degree turn while steaming full speed ahead. That is to say, having gone on record over the past 12 years with forthright, not to say extreme, views on almost every issue of foreign and domestic policy, he is presently engaged in re-vamping and downgrading these views.

Goldwater does not see it in that light. As he put it to me in a brief talk sandwiched into his crowded schedule, no one up until now has paid very much attention to what he has said. When they examine his views they do not find them as "crackpot" as they had been made out.

He says with the disarming smile that is part of his charm that he does not hold that consistency is a virtue. The Senator might have added that it is a luxury no politician can afford. A thick book at the top of the best-seller list (JFK: The Man and the Myth) was written to show that President Kennedy has been all things to all men. Ottawa Offbeat

Charm Merchants

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

WITH keenest anticipation Liberals and Conservatives alike are waiting for the first eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation of those two old political smoothies, the charm merchants Prime Minister Pearson and Ontario Premier Roberts.

They could put on just such a show of political sweetness and light as the capital has never seen before.

And if they do, it will completely reverse the field in federal-provincial relations.

For years—ever since those dim and distant days when Ontario Liberal Premier Mitchell Hepburn described Liberal Prime Minister Mackenzie King as "an old toad"—Parliament Hill and Queen's Park, if they haven't been at daggers-drawn, have been decidedly cold to each other.

And this was true even when the same party was in power in both capitals, with former Prime Minister Diefenbaker having his differences with former Ontario Premier Leslie Frost over the fair division of taxes.

It was hardly a secret either that Dief felt rather bitterly that Premier Roberts did something less than his best in giving the federal Conservatives a rather indifferent hand in last spring's general election.

But look what's been happening now. Those two specialists in the soft word have been promising each other all kinds of co-operation.

Premier Roberts, refusing any further to attempt to do business with Health Minister LaMarsh on the controversial pensions issue, instead will be taking it up with the Prime Minister.

Completely unexcited, Mr. Roberts wisely spoke of his wish to be helpfully co-operative with the Prime Minister, and Mr. Pearson just as wisely replied with assurances of wanting to fully reciprocate this sympathy and understanding.

People who heard them or read what they said could scarcely help but wonder what was going on.

For federal prime ministers, it seems, have always met with open hostility or at least unfriendly suspicion at Queen's Park. Quebec City and most other provincial capitals.

Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis was equally abusive of Mackenzie King, and often joyfully joined Mitchell Hepburn in publicly roasting him. Together the two provincial premiers worked out quite a team act in kicking the Prime Minister around.

Even the quiet, kindly, courtly, former Liberal Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent had his troubles with the premiers—and not just when they descended on Ottawa with their continuing demands at successive Dominion-Provincial conferences for bigger, ever bigger slices from the national tax pie.

After Quebec's Duplessis, with a fine dramatic show of temper or temperament, walked out in the middle of a tax conference, relations became so strained that the federal government couldn't even give its money away to him.

He simply refused to accept as much as a nickel of some federal grants on grounds that it would make Quebec beholden to Ottawa.

And then there was the day that poor old "Uncle Louis," good and trusting soul that he was, made a pilgrimage of dominion-provincial peace to Quebec.

Almost hat in hand he journeyed to Quebec to see the premier and offer concessions, with the haughty Duplessis condescending to meet him halfway at Montreal.

They met in a hotel and suite of the premier's choosing, shook off the shadowing press in a strange game of hide and hideouts at Duplessis' direction, and handed out a statement later tailored to his dictates.

And it has been that way ever since from one administration through another, with all the capitals keeping at a cool arm's length—until now with this rather astounding and quite encouraging exchange of compliments between Lester Pearson and John Roberts.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press
The Fathers of Confederation—33 delegates from Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland—met at Quebec 99 years ago today—in 1867 to discuss the feasibility of a political union of British North America. The conference passed 72 resolutions as an outline to the proposed federal union and these later became the basis of negotiations at the 1866-67 London Conference, and eventually formed the core of the British North America Act.
1911—The Chinese revolution broke out.
1913—Composer Giuseppe Verdi was born.

Washington Calling

could you ram anything down anyone's throat. The Arizona Senator made it plain he did not agree with most of the extreme views of the young Republican leader.

The incident illustrates only too clearly his problem in holding off extremists who give him idolatry just this side of downright worship. Goldwater has criticized Robert Welch, suggesting he should be removed as head of the John Birch Society. But he has praised Birchite members as good citizens whom he knows in his own community.

What the ultras could do for Goldwater—if it came in late December, a month before he has promised to make an official pronouncement on whether he is a candidate, it would be the finest possible Christmas present—would be to repudiate him as a traitor to his past. They are not likely to do that. They have too big a stake in him and his candidacy is too attractive.

Defying all the rules in the rule book, the Goldwater boom will go down as one of the most remarkable phenomena in America's political history. He is of Jewish origin. He comes from a state with only four electoral votes. He is on the record with extreme views on almost every issue. Yet there it is—big as life and twice as natural.

Agriculture Kremlin's Achilles Heel

By ERNEST CONINE, from Vienna

For years Kremlin propagandists have crowed confidently that the Soviet Union soon will win the economic race with the "tired American horse."

Now in a surprising and perhaps significant turnabout Soviet economists recently complained publicly that U.S. experts have overrated Russian economic achievements.

Yanislav G. Strumilin, dean of Soviet economists, noted in fact the U.S.S.R. has made practically no progress in catching up with the United States since 1960. Far from overtaking the United States by 1970, as Premier Khrushchev has promised, Strumilin said the Soviet Union will not catch up until well after the turn of the 21st century.

These startling remarks were made in a Soviet statistical publication not read by the general Russian public and stand out in isolation against the general tenor of Soviet propaganda.

However, when read against the background of mammoth Russian wheat purchases in the West and other signs of trouble in the Soviet economy some non-Communist experts believe the article was a first step toward preparing the public for bad news to come.

It is considered possible that the seven-year plan, scheduled to run through 1965, will undergo a major overhaul to match the realities of failures on the farm and sluggishness in industry.

All this has a major bearing upon two major topics under discussion in Washington—the sincerity and motivation of the current Soviet peace offensive and the advisability of relaxing restraints upon U.S. trade with iron curtain countries.

BACKGROUND

Khrushchev Tells Workers:

Solution 'Beyond Our Means'

Despite this year's apparently serious crop failures, the Soviet Union is still hanging back from an all-out program of capital investment to correct the basic ills, reports reaching Austria indicate.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in a speech to agricultural workers in the Dnieper delta, said it is "beyond our means" to deal simultaneously with the shortage of chemical fertilizers and the need for more irrigated lands.

Accordingly, priority will go to expansion of fertilizer production, the Soviet ruler told his audience. Crop failures have forced Russia to contract for millions of tons of wheat from the West. Most of the grain apparently will go to fulfill Soviet commitments to the eastern European satellites. Although bad weather is a major factor in the crop losses, Western experts agree the Soviet agricultural problem will never be solved until the Kremlin decides to shift sufficient investment funds from heavy industry to agriculture.

Khrushchev's speech indicated such a decision has not been made. The premier, calling increased fertilizer production essential, said output will reach 35,000,000 tons by 1965 and 100,000,000 tons by 1970. However, a recent Tass report said this year's production would fall well short of the 25,000,000 to 29,000,000-ton goal.

The Soviet leader, at the 22nd party congress in 1961, called for expansion of irrigated lands from 22,500,000 to 70,000,000 acres during the next decade.

In his recent speech, however, he pointed out that construction of irrigation systems take a long time and require "colossal" capital investment.

A Breathing Spell

U.S. Kremlinologists disagree on motivations behind Soviet interest in a nuclear test ban and other tension-easing steps. Almost all are convinced that Moscow is as determined as ever to communize the world, though with means short of nuclear war. They agree largely that the Soviets want a breathing spell in the confrontation with the United States.

Some believe the Soviets will use the breathing spell to put their missiles in concrete-hardened launching pads and to build an anti-ballistic missile defence all under cover of peace talks.

Other experts, however, are convinced that the Kremlin is calling for a "time out" in the cold war, in order to put its economic house in order and to concentrate attention on healing the wounds in world communism caused by the split with Peking.

Clues to the right answer will come less from the smiles and frowns of Soviet diplomats than in what happens to the Kremlin's allocation of resources in the coming months.

A crash program of missile site construction would show up, for example, in a reduction of cement supplies for housing and industrial building. On the other hand, the massive investment that will be required for a solution of the agricultural crisis is incompatible with a major speedup in defence.

Russia's energetic wheat-buying spree in the West, which may reach the billion-dollar mark before it ends, is just one sign that the Soviet economy is undergoing a strain to meet the competing demands imposed by Kremlin ambitions.

Romania Cuts Chains

By LAJOS LEDERER, from London

Romania has joined what begins to look like a competition between east European communist regimes to prove themselves progressive and free from the shadow of Stalinism. (East Germany remains the grim exception).

After years of isolation from contacts with the western world, Romania began last year to put out feelers in Vienna and Belgrade, with the aim of reopening links. These activities have lately been intensified in Paris and London, particularly in connection with trade.

The first real sign of the change came two months ago when Romania became the first—and only—east European country to cease jamming broadcasts from Munich by the U.S.-backed Radio Free Europe.

This week the editors of four leading Romanian communist newspapers, visiting Britain as guests of the Foreign Office, were remarkably frank in conversation. They were uninhibited in admitting failures and weaknesses in their country. They were able to meet people without "escorts" and spent their free time as they wished.

It appears that direct Soviet influence has steadily diminished ever since Red Army troops left Romania five years ago, and that simultaneously commercial inequalities—which amounted to exploitation of Romania by Russia—have almost ceased.

Internal liberalization seems to have kept pace with similar developments in Poland and Hungary. There is evidently no need now for a Romanian to possess a Communist Party card before he can gain admission to a university, or secure employment in state service.

The Romanians claim, and independent sources support them, that police interference with individual liberty has generally diminished. People no longer fear to be seen in the company of foreigners. Western jazz is played, unmuted by officialdom.

Living standards, it is admitted, are still inadequate. Clothing supplies have improved, but consumer goods of high quality are scarce. The housing shortage continues: Many families still live in single rooms, sharing one kitchen with three or four other families.

Industrialization has been stepped up. The most interesting fact in this sphere is that the Romanian government is steadily discarding Soviet equipment and plant, and replacing them with material from the West.

British firms have recently supplied or contracted to supply Romania with factory installations costing $98,000,000.

This is a visible manifestation of Romania's determination to have an independent role, instead of becoming merely a cog in the machinery of COMECON—the Soviet-sponsored council for mutual economic assistance and the communist equivalent of the Common Market.

May Influence 1964 Election

Birchers Strong in West

By JOYCE EGGINTON from San Francisco

Along with the advertisements for motels, gasoline stations and hamburger joints, there is a sign on a main California highway which reads: "Be a loyal American. Join the John Birch Society."

It has not been defaced, for in these far western states, the extreme right-wingers have achieved a respectability which, a year ago, even they dared not dream possible.

Being a loyal American, in John Birch terms, means embracing a belief that the United Nations is an evil to be uprooted from U.S. soil, that President Kennedy has formed an unpatriotic alliance with Communists, and that the current civil rights campaign is part of a Communist plot aimed at creating a "Soviet Negro Republic in this country's south-eastern states."

This creed has long attracted strange, bitter, isolationist types like Robert Welch, the retired candy manufacturer from New England, who formed the society. They are to be found here and there across the U.S.; most of them regarded by their neighbors as cranks.

EZRA TAFT BENSON

... outright support

In the west, however, the movement has steadily grown until in some areas it has almost reached the stage of a popular force, particularly in those sparsely populated mountain states from North Dakota to Arizona where men have long held the reputation of being rugged individualists.

This is the area on which the John Birch Society is concentrating for the 1964 Presidential election campaign, since these are the states where a few thousand votes can tip the balance.

The Birchers naturally support the conservative leader, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, one of the leading contenders for the Republican Party's presidential nomination.

The support is not open, but the Birchers are active in the area.

Moon Race Truce

Moscow has put out feelers for a truce in the costly race to the moon. Major new foreign aid commitments are being avoided. The Soviets have hinted they would welcome renewed trade ties between the United States and Cuba where Russia has been losing the mounting bill for the transition to "socialism."

Industrial growth, although still impressive, has slowed. So has the rise in the standard of living.

However, Khrushchev's major headache is agriculture, which must surely go down as communism's most abysmal failure.

The Bolsheviks came to power 46 years ago shouting "more bread" for the masses but in their mania for rapid development of heavy industry they have systematically exploited the farmers in order to pay the bills.

The results are starkly obvious. Production in heavy industry is 63 times greater than in the pre-revolutionary year of 1913. Farm output in the same period has increased only 2½ times.

Soviet farm production is only two-thirds that of the United States, although its crop area is half again as large, and it employs over six times as many agricultural workers.

To increase incentives, farm prices have increased, capital investment has been stepped up somewhat, and most dramatic of all, huge areas of "virgin lands" in Kazakhstan and Siberia were plowed up for the first time in a massive effort to increase output.

For a time good weather helped convince the Soviets they were on the right track. 1958 was a record year and overly ambitious goals were set for the seven year plan beginning in 1959.

Near Disaster

Now for the fourth year in a row farm output has fallen well below planned levels and is nowhere close to the highwater mark of 1958. There is speculation that the failure could be of near disaster proportions but reliable data is not yet available.

But agricultural targets for the seven-year plan obviously will not be met.

The question is will the Kremlin at long last be willing to sacrifice industrial growth and even defence interests for a time in order to give a transfusion to the long-starved agricultural sector.

Most western experts would be surprised to see such an abrupt reversal of more than four decades of Soviet policy.

Clues to the facts may begin to emerge in November when the communist party's central committee is expected to meet and deal with the chemical industry, including fertilizers and synthetic fibres.

A plenum specifically on agriculture will "probably" be held afterward, according to Khrushchev.

Meanwhile, the raging controversy over the proposed U.S. wheat sale to Russia was ended yesterday by President Kennedy's statement agreeing to the sale.

The dilemma had been whether to sell the wheat and thereby reduce the huge U.S. grain surplus, and help the balance of payments, or to withhold the grain and possibly force the Soviets to make a long overdue shift in emphasis from heavy industry, with all its military implications, to agriculture.

President Kennedy's announcement means that Washington decided to bow to current economic pressures rather than take the long-term strategic view.

Reason for Refusal to Sign Treaty?

Castro Flaunts His Freedom

Fidel Castro's refusal to sign the Moscow nuclear test ban treaty is sparking speculation in Latin America along two, diametrically opposed lines.

One school of thought is that he is trying desperately to demonstrate Cuba's independence of Moscow.

The other line of thinking suggests that Castro is putting on an act at the behest of the Russians.

The first theory is hard to swallow. Castro admits that Cuba now owes Russia the equivalent of more than $100,000,000 and that does not let into account the cost of the jet aircraft and other military equipment he says Nikita Khrushchev gave Cuba. Presumably the debt is for the canned foods and machinery Cuba has been getting from behind the Iron Curtain.

What seems more likely is that the spectacle of Communist Cuba flying in the face of the Soviet Union is intended to show the rest of Latin America that the Kremlin permits Communist satellites some freedom of action.

This could be intended to reinforce the impression that Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito has been fomenting in his tour of Latin America, that Moscow has mellowed and is now more anxious for world peace than world conquest.

Castro seeks to justify Cuba's stand on the nuclear test ban act, as well as on Mexico President Adolfo Lopez Mateos' proposal for "denuclearization" of Latin America, by blaming the United States for "tightening the siege of Cuba."

(Copley News Service)

since the Birchers do not want to wreck their favorite's chances by having him labelled even more extremist than he is, and while the Goldwaterites are grateful for the votes they prefer not to enter into an open alliance with the Birchers.

In thinly-populated Idaho, the Birchers have been instrumental in having the State legislature pass an act demanding a "loyalty oath" from all State employees. Anti-Communist "study groups" are on the increase; and the owner of a small Idaho radio station had much of his sponsorship withdrawn after he had dared to criticize the Birchers on the air.

Pressure on teachers and university lecturers has many of them too scared to speak out against the John Birchers for fear of their jobs. The number of Birchers is strictly secret, but this secrecy does not always extend to the names of its membership.

In Utah, a leader of the society is Reed Benson—son of Ezra Taft Benson, a former Secretary of Agriculture and a senior official of the Mormon church.

The younger Benson has had the public blessing of his father who recently declared that the John Birch Society is "the most effective non-church organization in our fight against creeping socialism and Godless Communism."

Second B.C. Agency Gets Merit Award

For the second time, a provincial government agency headed by deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace has been given the highest award for local history on the North American continent.

The award was made by the American Association for State and Local History to the Barkerville restoration advisory committee, headed by Mr. Wallace.

CITATION

The citation reads: "For its foresight and vigor in promoting the restoration of Barkerville, B.C., its guidance and vision in the development of the interpretive and restoration programs, and for Barkerville Centennial Celebrations, 1962."

The first award was made for the 1958 provincial centennial program, which was also headed by Mr. Wallace.

The association's award of merit is a special citation giving national recognition to persons, groups or organizations who have made a significant contribution to the study of understanding of local history. The association is a non-profit education organization of local and state-wide historical societies throughout the U.S. and Canada.

CPR SELLS SHIPS

Canadian Pacific Railway has sold another of its post-war deep-sea freighter fleet. The 10,000-ton Beaver Glen has been bought for an unstated price by Hibiacus Ltd. of Hamilton, Bermuda.

Three other sister ships, all built in Britain between 1945 and 1947, were recently sold to Italian owners.

Cut Spending, Chamber Tells Ottawa

QUEBEC (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce yesterday approved its program of action for the next year calling for sounder fiscal policies from the government, more trade and social welfare programs that are within the country's ability to pay.

The chamber said the government will have to keep its spending down if the tax burden on Canadian business and consumers is not to become overwhelming.

FOR ANY PURPOSE

Further welfare programs, "for any purpose," now must be weighed against the drawbacks of increased government costs, the chamber's official policy statement said.

"If government expenditures are permitted to continue to rise at the pace of recent years, a disproportionate share of the national product will be siphoned off into government channels to the detriment of the private sector."

MORE EMPHASIS

"If the Canadian economy is to maintain a satisfactory rate of growth there must be more emphasis on increased savings, capital investment and productivity and less on new welfare programs. This should be the criterion for government expenditure for some years to come."

On taxes, the chamber said attention should be given to "some shift in emphasis from taxes on income to taxes on expenditure."

The present tax structure "saps the vigorous spirit of enterprise and initiative on which the nation must rely for continued expansion," the policy said. "A necessary and desirable reform would be to reduce the present reliance on personal and corporate income taxes and restore the incentive to venture and invest in an expanding Canadian economy."

TRADE POLICY

The chamber's policy said Canada's foreign trade policy should be geared to achieving maximum industrial development.

Noting what it called an encouraging trend in world trade toward moving raw and semi-processed materials without tariff restrictions, the chamber said the government should further the full and effective use of the nation's resources of manpower, raw materials, technology and knowledge, production should have the general aim of facilities and money.

Crisis Talk In Algeria

ALGIERS (UPI) — Two top aides of Moroccan King Hassan II arrived here yesterday and conferred with Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella in emergency talks to head off further clashes along the tense frontier between Algeria and Morocco.

Travellers from Morocco reported Hassan had ordered fresh troops into the border area where the government charged that Algerian troops invaded Moroccan territory and killed 10 soldiers.

Justice Likes Pinky Boodles

LONDON — Judge Samuel Michaels Edgell, 66, led a penguin into his divorce court, put it beside his bench and opened court for business, making no reference to the dog.

Later he explained: "Other judges take their wives into court so why shouldn't I take my dog? Mine is a lonely life travelling around the country to divorce courts and that's why I take Pinky Boodles with me. Yes, that's my dog's name."

CHICAGO — A court cleared one-time mobster Earl (The Owl) Hamhart, now an apartment block caretaker, of a charge of assaulting a teenager who scattered leaves he raked into a pile. He has completed parole after serving part of a 90-year term for the Roger Touhy gang kidnapping of John Factor in the 1930s.

CLEVELAND — Bar hostess June Wasko, 27, mother of two, told police she had been dating wealthy jeweler Edward Richards, 28, more than a year with the approval of her husband Andrew, 35. Richards was beaten to death Monday; the killer still is sought.

WASHINGTON — James Meredith, first Negro graduate from the University of Mississippi, wants to re-enter Ole Miss. He hopes to add a law degree to his degree of bachelor of arts in political science.

ERLENBACH, Switzerland — U.S. heiress Gamble Benedict, 22, refused reconciliation with Andre Forumbansu, clearing the way for divorce proceedings.

NEW YORK — Visiting Miss. Age Diah Kim, first lady of South Viet Nam, charged the U.S. Information Agency and possibly the New York Times, Associated Press and United Press are involved in a plot to overthrow the Diem regime — "but I can assure you it will not succeed."

TORONTO — A recount in Huron-Bruss of votes in the Sept. 23 Ontario election gave the seat to former Liberal member Murray Ganss by 28 votes. He trailed Tory George McCutcheon by three election night. House standings are Tories 77, Liberals 24, NDP seven.

HOLLYWOOD — Actress June Allyson, widow of Dick Powell, will wed hair stylist Glenn Maxwell, 31, Saturday.

BONN — The West German Supreme Court nullified the six-year hard labor sentence given former S.S. officer Wilhelm Doering and ordered new proceedings. Doering, 45, was sentenced for aiding in the murder of 667 Jews and 16 mentally sick children in Russia during the war.

CHILLIWACK — An inquest has been ordered into the death of Robert Morden, 24, whose body was found head-down in a manhole. Morden, foreman of a sewer project, apparently was inspecting work.

NEW DELHI — Prime Minister Nehru said the Voice of America transmitter proposed for India will not be installed.

VAN COUVER — Michael Head, who fed popcorn to polar bears in Stanley Park zoo, was fined $5 for ignoring a do-not-feed-the-bears sign.

OTTAWA — Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie ended a state visit to Canada and flew to Bermuda for a holiday.

VANCOUVER — A contempt-of-court charge against former court reporter Leopold Domaldson was dropped. He said he blacked out on receipt of a subpoena to testify in a perjury trial.

PORT MANN — Highway Minister Gagliardi officiated as "last steel" was laid for the $25,000,000 Port Mann bridge over the Fraser River, last important Trans-Canada Highway crossing in B.C.

DETROIT — Alfred Fisher, 70, one of the U.S. car industry's famed Fisher brothers, died at Henry Ford Hospital.

Envoy Defiant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Honduran ambassador to the United Nations Wednesday rejected the military takeover in his country and said he was taking orders from nobody.

Ambassador Francisco Milla Bermudez said that since the overthrow of the government of President Jose Ramon Villeda Morales in Tegucigalpa last week, the only legal authority in Honduras is Vice-President Juan Miguel Mejia.

The Honduran diplomat appealed for non-recognition of the regime set up by Col. Oswaldo Lopez as "military chief of state."

NEW YORK — Prime Minister Pearson may meet French President De Gaulle in Paris early next year. French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville said after meeting External Affairs Minister Paul Martin.

OTTAWA — Dr. Richard Glover, professor of history at the University of Manitoba, was named director of the human history branch of the National Museum of Canada.

NEW DELHI — Dr. Salfuddin Kitchlew, 75, a leader of the Indian independence struggle, died at 75.

Secret of the Century

LONDON (UPI) — Government officials said yesterday the full 80,000 words of secret evidence collected by Lord Denning in his probe of the Profumo scandal will never be destroyed.

But the transcript will be locked away and not released for at least 50 years — and probably 100 years.

Mine Floods City Four Known Dead

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — Earthen sides of an American-owned open tin mine collapsed here yesterday under pressure of monsoon rains, sending a wall of water sweeping through a wide area of this city. A seven-foot high tide washed away scores of homes and flooded the city airport.

Police reported four persons were known to have died, three of them children. Officials said the death toll was expected to rise. Radio Malaysia reported at least 1,000 persons were made homeless. The mine was a huge underwater suction-dredge operation.

B.C. Boy, 14, Charged In Milkman Wounding

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A 14-year-old boy appeared Wednesday in juvenile court on charges of attempted robbery with violence and breaking and entering in connection with the shooting Tuesday of milkman William Miller, 41, into a house seven miles south of here and waylaid Miller when he called. They said the milkman refused demands for money and the youth shot him in the back as he returned to his truck.

How to Treat Piles

without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories
Relieve Itching, Soreness and Pain

Here is a nice, clean, easy way to shrink swollen piles, relieve itching and soreness, even cure troublesome hemorrhoids — and all this without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories. The secret of this convenient pile relief is in taking just one small NEM-ROD tablet two or three times a day. In a few days you may forget about those sore, burning piles. With gentle but persistent INTERNAL action NEM-ROD helps break up and smoothly and painlessly pass off hardened, indurated waste, relieve itching, soreness and pain, shrink piles and prevent them from coming back. NEM-ROD is so effective and pleasant to use, many men have written us their thanks.

Now, treating piles with an INTERNAL treatment, the NEM-ROD may be new to you but in practice it is an old idea because NEM-ROD has been available in Canadian drug stores for over 30 years. Thousands of packages have been sold.

Why suffer needlessly? See for yourself how easy NEM-ROD is to use, how quickly effective it is. Costs only a few pennies a day. Full purchase price refunded if you are not pleased. All drug stores. Ask for NEM-ROD. INTERNAL. FILE TREATMENT. 404.

Latin Replaced in Mass

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — The ecumenical council voted Wednesday to let Roman Catholics sing and recite mass in their own languages instead of Latin.

It was a historic occasion, reversing more than 1,000 years of church tradition.

The decision to open the way for modern languages to replace Latin in large sections of the mass was voted overwhelmingly by the more than 2,200 churchmen present in the debating hall at St. Peter's Basilica.

FOUR STEPS

Archbishop Paul Hallinan of Atlanta, Georgia, a representative on the council's liturgy commission, said there are four steps necessary in any change-over from Latin to English.

First, the second chapter of the decree has to be voted on as a whole. Then, it has to be

Police Seeking Pair of Girls

TRAIL (CP) — Police in B.C. and Washington state have been asked to be on the lookout for two schoolgirls missing since Friday.

Pat Bertrand, 15, and Beverly, 13, did not return to their homes from school. Police said they do not suspect foul play.

HAS FINE STOCK

The Crocker Art Gallery of Sacramento, Calif., has more than 1,000 original drawings dating from the 15th century.

formally approved by Pope Paul VI, he said.

After this, Archbishop Hallinan said, a national bishop's conference has to make a decision on whether or not it wants to change from Latin to English in masses.

Finally, approved translations have to be drawn up of the parts of the mass that would be put into English or other national languages.

The liturgy decree states that regional and national groups of bishops will decide when and how the changeover will be effected in their areas according to local needs.

The liturgy decree, fully debated at the council's opening session last fall, aims at revitalizing Roman Catholic worship. The chapter voted on Wednesday deals specifically with the mass.

In voting on the liturgy decree, a key provision changed the draft's original wording that permission for some language changes in the mass "shall be given" to "may be given."

OPENED WAY

Another amendment, voted by 2,278 to 41, actually opened the way for the vernacular to be used in readings from the bible and those parts of the mass recited or sung by the people.

These include opening psalms known as the Mass of Catechism, the Gloria in Excelsis Deo, the Creed, the Our Father and other prayers.

Council sources said the central part of the mass—recited only by the priest—would stay in Latin. However, the council passed another amendment that may make it possible for priests to recite mass in the vernacular.

TV Shows Hinder Psychiatry

WINNIPEG (CP)—The current crop of television shows dealing with psychological problems tends to hinder rather than help the work of psychiatrists, the director of the Canadian Mental Health Association, said Wednesday in Winnipeg.

Dr. J. B. Griffin, a Toronto psychiatrist, said the shows always "glamorize the psychologist and psychiatrist and make him look like a miracle worker." He said the shows can only give the public—and those needing help—a false image of what can be done.

West Would Be Warmer

If C. D. Howe Were Alive!

AZILDA, Ont. (CP) — Ratepayer Jean Perrault had a lot of faith in the powers of Rayside Township's council.

Tuesday he sought council support for a plan to divert the Gulf Stream to melt the Arctic Ocean icecap and provide a warmer climate for North America and Europe.

He said he read of the idea in a French-language publication and told the council it was the "sparkplug" that could lend its support and get things moving.

The council told him such matters are for senior levels of government.

Mr. Perrault walked out, horse, saying: "He was the kind of man who would have gotten Howe, former Liberal wheel, something done."

Why is Chevrolet building a fifth line of cars when it builds four great ones already?

Chevelle Malibu Super Sport Coupe

A fair question.

And we could give you a lot of impressive-sounding answers. But basically the explanation is quite simple. It has to do with people.

Each year their tastes become more discerning, more selective. They want a car that fits their particular needs. "Almost" isn't good enough.

So for '64 we're building the Chevelle—a totally new line of cars that combines some advantages nobody else has come up with yet. Chevelle's ride and room, for example, compare favorably with many of today's bigger cars. Yet it gives you the handling ease and agility you expect in a smaller car. And as for looks—it's styled with a fresh and youthful flair all its own.

Possibly you're one of today's car buyers who've been looking for such a combination. Possibly you're not. (Which is the reason we're building our other four for '64: the new Jet-smooth luxury Chevrolet; the thrifty new Chevy II with a choice of new V8 power; the sporty new Corvair with a bigger, more powerful rear engine; and the new Corvette, North America's only honest-to-goodness sports car.)

Driving the new Chevelle is an experience you're not likely to forget—particularly if you happen to get hold of one of the V8s. And along with its spirit, of course, you'll find the kind of quality craftsmanship and reliability you've come to expect of a Chevrolet-built car. Needless to say, it's that kind of car through and through.

Matter of fact, once you really get to know it, we have a hunch you'll come up with some reasons for building the Chevelle that haven't even occurred to us yet.

Storm-Torn Centre Getting New Runway

MCHORD, Wash. (AP)—The U.S. air force said Wednesday it will fly 350,000 tons of pierced steel planking to storm-battered Point Barrow, Alaska, dropping it so people can lay out a new runway for relief supplies. An Arctic gale last week wrecked the runway, 200 homes and water and fuel supplies.

Infected

State Blocks Frozen Eggs

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Washington State has clamped an embargo on more than 250,000 pounds of frozen egg products suspected of containing salmonella organisms. Joe Dwyer, state director of agriculture, said Wednesday health officials traced the egg products to the Commercial Creamery in Spokane after an outbreak of salmonella food infection at Whitworth College in Spokane last month.

Dr. E. A. Ager of the state health department said state and local health officials have checked and confirmed cases of salmonella in six other centres, including Seattle.

Most of the affected persons were sent to hospital. He said the infection could be fatal.

Dr. Ager said an investigation at Whitworth College indicated more than 50 college people became ill after eating pies topped with meringue made from egg whites.

He said the eggs were traced back to the Spokane creamery.

Music Group Lowers Age Limit

Age limit has been lowered to 18 from 21 by the Studio Group of the Victoria Musical Art Society to give younger members a chance to gain experience in performing before an audience.

A change in the constitution was made at the group's first meeting of the season when the program consisted of a madrigal singing by Charles Palmer's choir; a string quartet under the direction of Mrs. Julia Hunt and lyric recitations by Mrs. Opal Campbell.

Sugar Up Again

MONTREAL (CP)—Three major sugar refineries—St. Lawrence, Canada and Dominion and Atlantic—Wednesday announced a 25-cent increase in the wholesale price of refined sugar, bringing it to $13.15 a 100-pound bag.

First Start Brings Luck For Owner

By JIM TANG

"I've got $16,000 invested in my horses and I've won two races this year."

It was a rueful comment from a veteran owner who had just been told about Evan Williams, Sandown Park's newest—and luckiest—owner.

Williams, in the heating business in Victoria and prominent in minor league baseball as an official of the Babe Ruth League, has harbored an ambition to own a thoroughbred ever since his younger days when he was a groom and exercise boy for Les Robertson and the late Harry Street. A streak of successes at the mutual windows was followed by the decision to invest some of his profits to fulfill his long-held ambition.

DEAL COMPLETED

He made a deal last week-end with veteran owner Billy Fields to purchase a four-year-old grey filly named Emily Post. He made a down payment, showed up at Sandown yesterday morning and officially took over ownership at about 11. Total cost was $800. Just over four hours later, Emily went to the post in the fourth race carrying jockey Charlie Ulick and a considerable amount of tangible backing by her new owner.

PICTURE TIME

One minute, 13 and one-fifth seconds later, the fastest six furlongs of the day, Williams stepped into the winners' circle to have his picture taken—a winner in his first effort as an owner. Emily Post had outstayed a speedy field for the lead and just kept on running as if to show she was not one to break faith. "I've been threatening to buy myself a mare for at least four years," Williams said after the race, indicating that he was perhaps more interested in breeding thoroughbreds than in racing them.

ANOTHER KESLO?

If his luck continues, he'll keep his mare and her first foal will be another Keslo. However, Williams is fallible. He had it figured that Big Julius would be closest to Emily Post at the finish. But he was wrong. It was Andie Cara, but it took a camera to decide it.

OVER MILLION

Meanwhile, Sandown patrons continued to assure a racing future for the district by betting another $73,935 to bring the total for the meeting to $1,028,212 after 11 days.

It's only the third time in nine years at Sandown that the mutual handle has eclipsed a million dollars and the total after 11 days is almost exactly the amount bet in 15 days in 1961, when the handle went over a million for the first time.

EXTRA DAY

With a 17th day requested to give four racing days next week, and likely to be granted, the handle this year could go to $1,500,000 and smash last year's mark of $1,274,110 (for 17 days).

It has been quite a climb for Sandown. The handle for the first meeting in 1955 was approximately $500,000 and there was quite a buzz when the last-day total was $84,312, less than half of what was bet here a week ago last Saturday.

GRAPHIC STORY

The average daily handle tells the story more graphically. In 1955 it was approximately $40,000. By 1961 it was about $67,000. It was just shy of $75,000 last year and this year stands at $83,473.

Given good weather the rest of the way, the daily betting this year could easily average $100,000.

Esquimalt Wins

Esquimalt defeated Victoria High, 15-11, Wednesday in an inter-high school junior girls' basketball league game at Esquimalt.

Dodgers Knew All Yankees' Weaknesses

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers' stunning four-game world series sweep over New York Yankees was the result of a perfect book—actually 19 pages of loose leaf paper—compiled by three top scouts.

Carrying out the instructions and recommendations in the secret report, Dodger pitchers Sandy Koufax, Johnny Podres and Don Drysdale were able to limit the American League's toughest hitting team to four runs and 22 hits, only five for extra bases.

The weapon was provided by the information put together by director of scouts Al Campanis and two of his aides, Lefty Phillips and Ted McGraw.

The reports contained information on the strengths and weaknesses of every Yankee in the hitting, fielding and pitching departments. In addition to routine information, the Dodger pitchers learned which batters would lay off certain pitches, which they preferred, which they were most likely to hit—and in what direction the ball would probably travel when hit.

"I have never seen a more thorough scouting report," said Buzzy Bavasi, Dodger general manager.

The players were told which Yankees were fast-ball hitters and when they were most likely to try and steal or attempt to hit-and-run. On the other hand, the Dodgers also learned when and against whom they could try to take the extra base, and which pitchers could be waited out and which could not.

Here's how some of the knowledge was used:

1. Drysdale picked off Tony Kubek at first base in the third inning of the third game, won by Dodgers 1-0. The scouts had detected a give-away move by Kubek, which indicated the hit-and-run play was on.

2. Jim Gilliam did not stop at second when Cleo Boyer's throw got by first baseman Jon Peplone, racing to third and eventually scoring the winning run in the seventh inning of the fourth game. The scouts had known that Peplone had a weak arm.

3. Shortstop Maury Wills was able to grab John Blanchard's grounder, to the right of second base, in the fifth inning of the third game. The scouts had noted that when they saw Blanchard he never hit to the left of second base.

4. Cleo Boyer of Yankees was able to get only one hit in 13 at-bats, while striking out six times. The scouts had recommended a steady diet of curves.

5. Elston Howard, a right-handed batter, hit only one ball to left field in the four games. The scouts planned the pitches.

Chiefs Right Up There Among Basketball Giants

If height means anything—and in basketball it can mean almost everything—Haida Chiefs may be shooting for the Inter-City Basketball League championship in their second year of senior "A" competition.

If it ever becomes necessary, coach Ken King will be able to floor a starting five that averages slightly over 6'5". It won't generally work out that way, because his best five aren't necessarily his tallest five, but just the thought of it is enough to make things look brighter.

GOOD LOOK

King took a long look at his club last night in a regulation game, complete with referees and time clock, in which was supposed to be a prelude to cutting time but didn't actually work out that way.

What cuts there were were almost foregone conclusions. Terry Tobacco will step up as assistant coach, and Chuck Bennett and young John Allen were dropped. Willie Wong will stay with the club as reserve.

THE LINEUP

On the roster are forwards Bill Spoonwood (6'3"), Bob Tomlinson (6'7"), Darrell Lorimer (6'5"), Norris Martin (6'5"), Ed Steele (6'7") and Ken McCulloch (5'11"); and guards John Devlin (6'4"), Dave Shaw (6'8"), Barry Sedler (6'7"), Jim Cunningham (5'11"), Bill Wilson (5'8") and Pete Simmonds (6'5").

Perhaps the feature standout of last night's scrimmage was the performance of Tomlinson, who says he feels in better shape than he has been in years and proved it by leading both teams with 26 points.

Dial-a-Star On Today

CINCINNATI (AP)—The "restocking" of New York Mets and Houston Colts by other National League baseball clubs will take place by a conference telephone call today.

Aid for the two newest members of the league was sought after the close of this past season and it was decided each of the other eight clubs would put up four players from whom selections could be made at a $30,000 price.

Tyees Maintain Lead In Soccer Standings

Then there was McCulloch, who ended the shortest retirement in history by scoring 10 points. McCulloch, who is troubled with a bad back, discovered he had retired when he read it in the afternoon paper.

McCulloch will play, when and if his back allows him. And if he plays as he did last night, he can't help but help.

Simmonds scored 19 points despite some tough-luck shooting, and Steele showed a world of improvement over last year, finishing with 16. Martin and Lorimer looked as proficient as ever, and Cunningham looked like he is ready to go in senior competition.

Chiefs got their first look at the opposition Oct. 19, when they play an exhibition game against Alberni Athletics. They know they are better themselves; still to be learned is how much the rest of the league has improved with them.

Remember United? They're Here Again

Victoria's wandering soccer team comes home Saturday. Victoria United, which has not played before home fans since Sept. 14, takes on Vancouver Firefighters in a Pacific Coast Soccer League game at Royal Athletic Park.

It hasn't exactly been a holiday for United. Since playing to a 1-1 draw with Vancouver Canadians in the league opener here, the team of Wally Milligan have been beaten, 3-1, by North Shore, and played to a scoreless draw with Seattle Hungarians. Milligan hasn't decided how to juggle his forces for Saturday's game, but juggle he will as he tries to revive an offence that has managed but two goals in three games.

While Firemen and United are arguing here, Canadians and Wallace will be playing at Vancouver's Callister Park. Sunday Seattle visits Callister to meet North Shore, and Columbus plays Royals on the mainland Thanksgiving Day. All games start at 2 p.m.

DOCKERS FOURTH
The loss dropped Dockers into fourth place in the closely-packed league race.

While Dockers were falling from second to fourth in the table, Oak Bay and Claremont moved into a second-place tie by defeating Mount Douglas and Moun View respectively, and by identical 4-1 scores.

NO BREAKS

Mount Doug didn't get a break in its contest with Bays. The mountain boys scored on themselves twice, once in each half, as carefree backs made the afternoon a nightmare for goalie Ian Patullo.

Bays, leading 3-0 at the interval, got their third legitimate tally from Howie Anderson and Bob Shepherd. Brian Coppola scored for Mount Doug.

In Esquimalt Hockey

Pontiacs Take On All-Stars

Fans of the Esquimalt District Hockey League get their first look at the fare for the new season tomorrow night at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

League-champion Esquimalt Pontiacs will face an all-star team from Navy, Army and Victoria University Vikings in an exhibition game starting at 8 p.m. League play starts Oct. 18, when Vikings play Navy. Queen's Own Rifles will join the league as soon as they arrive.

Ted Hurd of Vikings will be in goal for all-stars, with teammate Doug Bambrough and Navy's Gary Anderson. Cliff Johnson, Glen Bennett and Paul Lapointe on defence.

Forwards will be Ken Maxwell, Claude McKinnis, Ron Cook, Kent McLeod and Darrell Tighe of Navy; Ted Sarkisian and Bob Wilson of Vikings, and George Springer and Bob Lensen of Army.

Hawks Win Over Blues; What's New?

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bill Hay, Johnny McKenzie and Ron Murphy scored goals last night to give the Chicago Black Hawks a 3-1 victory over their National Hockey League "cousins," the New York Rangers, in a season-opening game for each team.

The Hawks, who lost to the Broadway Blueshirts only twice in 14 games last year, never trailed before a cheering throng of 14,651, close to capacity for the arena.

FLASHY SHOT

But McKenzie turned in the flashiest shot with 52 seconds left in the first period to put Chicago in front to stay.

The score came with lightning swiftness after a face-off near the New York cage. Hay got the draw and the puck came through the air to McKenzie outside the face-off circle.

He struck it with his stick before it bounced and it came into the Ranger net shoulder high before goalie Jacques Plante, in his first game for New York, could move.

Murphy's score was in the last period when he took a rebound off Plante's pads and hit with a 15-footer. Hay scored on a pass from Bobby Hull which he got less than 10 feet from the net.

PLANTE CUT

The game was delayed for almost 15 minutes in the third period while Plante had seven stitches to close a cut over his left eye. He said he got the cut in a collision with McKenzie's elbow in a play near the cage.

Earl Ingarfield got New York's goal when defenceman Howie Young lost the puck near the Chicago net to give him a free shot from close in. Glenn Hall had 31 saves and Plante 40.

Chicago is at Detroit tonight.

Money-Back Day

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Bank of America today was in the process of paying out nearly a half-million dollars to holders of fifth game world series tickets.

Tickets were sold for three games at Dodger Stadium with the provision that if the Dodgers swept the series, any branch of the bank in California would refund the price of the tickets to the holders.

Those persons who paid exorbitant prices to scalpers—up to $100 per seat—will receive only the price on the face of the ticket—from $4-$12, however.

Speaking Briefly

Clay Ducks Chuvale

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Cassius Clay has changed his mind again: he won't fight Toronto heavyweight George Chuvale.

Clay now says he will not fight anyone until he faces world champion Sonny Liston for the title "in four or five months."

Clay said previously he would meet the winner of the Chuvale-Mike DeJohn bout, which Chuvale won.

But, Clay said, "Chuvale fights like a woman. He uses his head to butt, fights in close and he's dirty. I could get a cut eye or something like that."

"My people and the Liston people are getting together now and we may sign for a fight within the next week or two. The fight may be held in four or five months."

However, Clay's comments were hardly uttered before promoter Bill King protested and state boxing commissioner Bob Evans said he would hold a hearing on the whole matter Friday.

Dodgers Supply Names

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mrs. Eddie Turner of Compton gave birth to triplets Sunday, a few hours before the final game of the world series.

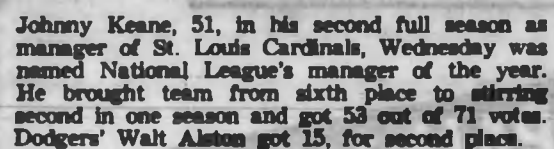

Tuesday, she and her husband named them after three Dodger pitchers. One is Donald Scott, for Don Drysdale; one is Sandy, for Sandy Koufax; and the third is Ronald Peter, for Ron Perranoski.

In the case of Koufax, the Turners decided not to borrow the proper first name. You can't very well call a girl Sanford.

New Hockey Man

Ken Winslade of New Westminster is the new president of the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association.

Winslade was elected at a PCAHA meeting at Kerrisdale to succeed Victoria's Ivan Temple, who had held the post for more than a decade.

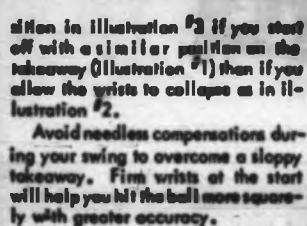

Golf Odds 'Ridiculous'

The T-1 figure was quoted by a prominent British bookmaker traveling with the visiting team on a holiday. Asking that he remain anonymous, the bookie, whose operations are legal in Britain, said it was about a 3-1 bet that the Yanks would win 65 per cent of the 32 matches, which start Friday and continue through Sunday.

Concerts Cancelled

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Symphony Society Wednesday cancelled the first concert of the 1963-64 season because of a deadlock in a wage dispute.

The society announced the first two subscription concerts, four school concerts and a university concert scheduled between now and Oct. 21 have been cancelled.

It said it would attempt further negotiations with the musicians' union to prevent cancellation of the entire 90-concert season.

The society said the union wants a two-year contract with the same wages as last year paid in the first year, and a 16.2 per cent increase in the second year unless the society was insolvent.

A society spokesman said it is impossible to give a base rate of pay musicians received last year because of differing rates. The society said its deficit is now $40,000.

legislative seat in the Sept. 30 election, says he'll remain as leader and begin immediate preparation for the next election. "I've been in politics 18 years," the former federal justice and works minister told a meeting of the Humanities Association of Canada. "I'm sure I've got another 18 years ahead of me."

OF SERVICE

"I like politics. I believe I can be of service to the public. I intend to stay in politics."

Mr. Fulton, beaten by Highways Minister Gagliardi in Kamloops, said with a smile: "One thing I've learned from the last election—that's that I've got a lot to learn about B.C. politics."

"But here, I'm not alone—so do many others."

MAIN REASONS

He said he felt lack of practical political skill on the part of the three defeated parties, fear of a minority government and dislike of socialism by the average workers were the main reasons for the outcome of the election.

Mr. Fulton, who plans a series of meetings here with party executives, declared: "One thing's for sure—we'll never be buried. In fact we're only beginning in B.C."

Student Going To Conference

A University of Victoria student leaves for Banff today to attend the western regional Canadian University Press conference.

Jim Bigsby, editor-in-chief of the university's student newspaper, the Martlet, will spend three days at the conference for student journalists.

Representatives from seven universities west of Winnipeg will participate in plenary sessions and seminar groups. They will receive advice on editing, writing and layout such as the influence of television on newspapers.

The meeting will prepare western students for the national C.U.P. conference to be hosted jointly by UBC and the University of Victoria in December.

More than 100 delegates from 41 universities across Canada will attend the national conference.

Canadian Anti-Toxin Curbs U.S. Outbreak

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—A supply of rare anti-toxin, flown here from Toronto's Connaught Laboratories, gave doctors the upper hand in an outbreak of deadly botulism, a food poisoning believed responsible for six deaths in Tennessee and Michigan. More anti-toxin is en route from Denmark, but Dr. Robert Lash of University Hospital said the present supply is adequate.

Criticism Not Valid Here

School Patrol Record Good In All-Around Safety Plan

Researchers who in a recent report claim the school safety patrol system gives children a false sense of security and causes them to be careless were not aware of the school safety program in Greater Victoria, an official said last night.

The report, appearing in the current copy of the Canadian Medical Journal, claims the safety patrol system makes children careless.

It says, however, that

Varsity Spirit 'Amiable'

Members of the faculty, administration and student council of the University of Victoria have expressed satisfaction with the relations between them this year.

At a tea given by the joint committee on student affairs Wednesday for student council, Dr. Harry Hickman, university acting president, said he was pleased with the responsibility shown by the council.

AMIALE

Mrs. Phoebe Noble, co-ordinator of women's activities, hoped co-operation would continue. Acting Registrar Ronald Jeffels and Dean Robert Wallace were impressed with the amiable atmosphere.

Student council president Larry Devlin added that "although future relations may not continue to run as smoothly, the solutions to any problems which may arise will be facilitated by the co-operation evident so far."

FECTION HEAT

Due to air friction the fuselage of an airplane flying 300 m.p.h. is 16 degrees hotter than when the plane is on the ground.

France Atom-Armed

PARIS (AP)—France's controversial nuclear strike force has come into being and super-atomic French planes are being armed with atomic bombs, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

The informants said a concrete beginning has been made with Mirage-IV planes rolling off assembly lines and receiving atomic bombs.

This was described as phase I of France's nuclear program. Later France is aiming to develop hydrogen bombs and missiles to carry them.

An obscure line in a communiqué issued following a cabinet meeting indicated for the first time officially that France had made its historic shift in armament. The communiqué spoke of the withdrawal of French military men from the naval air base at Bizerte, Tunisia, and said this was now possible because of "the creation of new means which the armed forces are beginning to have at their disposal."

Because of this development, French defences in the Mediterranean area will not be compromised by withdrawal of conventional forces from the Bizerte base, the communiqué went on.

There was no indication of how many operational planes and bombs the French have. The Mirage-IV, built especially to carry atomic bombs, is of medium range. It probably would not be able to reach into Soviet territory without tanker planes for refuelling.

Yeggs Crack Coke Box —Safe Was Too Tough

Thieves who tried unsuccessfully to crack a safe at the Economy Steam Laundry, 607 John, overnight Tuesday, had to settle for $3 they found when they broke open a soft drink machine.

Police said the burglars knocked the dial off the safe, punched a hole in the front of the safe, and tried to chop through the bottom of it.

Police said the thieves entered the building through a window on the roof and slid down a hot-water pipe to gain access to the building.

Cash drawers were pulled out in the offices of the company, and tools and blankets were scattered around the area near the safe, but nothing else was taken.

Recognition Issue

Only NDP with Caouette In Two New Failures

OTTAWA (CP)—A sudden move by Real Caouette to gain immediate recognition of his 13-man Creditiste group as a political party was rebuffed by two votes of the Commons Wednesday. Only the NDP supported Caouette.

The votes provided a temporary verdict on the controversial issue of recognizing the breakaway Social Credit faction.

However, a final decision still is up in the air, with little likelihood the Commons will come to a verdict for some days at least.

The votes were precipitated by Speaker Alan Macnaughton's decision not to allow Mr. Caouette to comment—as another opposition party leaders had done—on an announcement by Prime Minister Pearson at the opening of the day's sitting.

$300 Day Too Much

Accused Defends Self

Law Helps Those Who...

By MIKE GADSBY

ADRIAN ROY
... an experience

When Adrian Roy decided hiring a lawyer was too expensive, he borrowed some law books from the Saanich police and set about preparing his own defence.

Roy is on trial in B.C. Assize Court on a charge of possession of stolen goods in connection with a police raid to his home April 27.

"I hired a lawyer for a short time,"

said Roy, "but he said he would charge me $300 a day to defend me. I can't afford that kind of money, so I decided to do it myself."

"I had to sell my car to pay off what I owed him when I discharged him."

Roy said he sits up until 1 or 2 a.m. every night studying transcripts and law, and preparing his cross-examination for the next day's proceedings.

Although he is outwardly calm and at ease in court, Roy says he is not enjoying his dual role, but admits it is "quite an experience."

Always good-natured and amiable, with police and courtroom officials, Roy says it wouldn't help him any to hold grudges or present a sour face to the court.

"There's a bright side to everything," he says, "this way I'm saving myself $300 a day."

Service Trades

Multi-Million Plans Overlap for Schools

By JACK FRY

A multi-million-dollar vocational school geared to Victoria's service trade needs was planned by both the provincial government and the Greater Victoria school board—with neither knowing the other's intentions, the Colonist learned last night.

A duplication of effort was learned when reaction was sought to Education Minister Leslie Peterson's announcement that the government plans to build a $2,500,000 school here to teach such things as hotel training, tourist trade and secretarial work.

"This certainly is surprising news," said John Gough, district superintendent of schools. "It coincides with what the school board was hoping to undertake itself."

Timing was the major difference between the two proposals. The school board feels the school should be built within the next year or two, while Mr. Peterson said it may be seven years if the government builds it.

Another aspect of the problem is that if the project is initiated by the school board, Greater Victoria taxpayers will have to approve a money bylaw and probably dig deeper into their own pockets than they would have to if it was sponsored entirely by the government — although the school trustees would have more control over the school's operation.

Next Seven Years

Mr. Peterson told the Colonist from Vancouver yesterday that the government expects to build four more regional vocational schools during the next seven years, the fourth of which will be located in Victoria "to make further provision for the special needs of the capital city."

The other three will be built in the Peace River region, in the Prince Rupert and Skeena regions and in the Kamloops region. "On a priority basis which has not yet been established," he said.

The Victoria school will replace inadequate rented quarters in an old supermarket on Mendocino Street where a nursing course is presently being given.

Location for the school has yet to be decided and studies to determine what courses should be offered to meet Victoria's particular needs have not been completed, said the education minister.

However, the school "will deal primarily with the service trades rather than industrial training," he said, adding that there is a need here for training which would be useful in the tourist industry and hotel operation.

"It will not be a case of duplication of competition with the school board," Mr. Peterson said.

Mr. Gough welcomed the news that the government is interested in a vocational school of this nature.

Local School Board

"It tends to coincide with the proposal of the local school board to undertake in the near future the construction and operation of a similar unit," he said.

"It seems that both the local school board and the department of education have been working on this matter quite independently."

The school board held a meeting earlier this year with representatives of local trade and industry, found there was a need here for a service trade school and struck up an advisory committee which took the matter in hand, he said.

A brief seeking department of education approval for such a scheme is nearly completed and was to have been presented to the department within the next few weeks, Mr. Gough said.

The board's concept was an adult education centre in which service trades courses would be offered to improve the qualifications of Victoria workers and in which adults could also take academic courses part-time and complete their high school education which may have been interrupted earlier.

Mr. Gough said he thought such a vocational school would have to be "about the size of Lansdowne Junior High School" although no plans have been drawn and no site selected at this stage of the proposal.

"If the government is going to do it, then the school board will not need to—it will take the place of what the local school board had hoped to do," he said.

'Let Need Decide Schools'

Schools should be built if and when needed and not if and when taxpayers feel like passing a money bylaw, a special committee of the Doncaster PTA feels.

If bylaws must be put, then a simple majority and not 60 per cent should be sufficient to pass them, according to the committee's report, presented at last night's meeting.

The committee was set up when the PTA objected to delay in construction of a four-room extension to the elementary school and the fact students are on shifts.

Original plans called for six rooms but this was changed to four and these will be full. Children are studying in the library and the school secretary's office, and the secretary occupies the stockroom.

Non-Varsity Students Get New Chances

A new education program for the benefit of students who are not bound for university has been announced by Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

Sweeping new program changes "for the large proportion of our young people who are not and cannot be university bound" were announced by Mr. Peterson in an address Tuesday at the 50th annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Association in Vancouver.

The new program, offering senior secondary school students a choice of six separate courses leading to graduation, will go into effect for students entering Grade 11 in September, 1965.

The present university entrance program will remain intact, but the existing general course will be replaced by five new study fields, Mr. Peterson said.

The plan will follow closely recommendations made by the Chant report on higher education but is "still tentative and subject to change."

The general course will be replaced in 1965 by a vocational commerce course, a vocational service course, an agricultural course and a fine arts course.

Students will be required to take such general subjects as English and social studies but will be permitted to choose a specialty — such as secretarial work in the general commerce course.

"Graduation will depend not on a mere tallying of credits but upon completion of the requirements of the program chosen," Mr. Peterson said.

The present general program had been designed for students who would not continue on to university "but as we look back on this program in retrospect we find that one of its serious deficiencies was the failure to establish definite purposes and goals for the student," he said.

Under the new system, "each course will have a clearly definable purpose, preparation for entrance to the technical institute, preparation for entrance to

Fascination With Automation

So these bits of wire make this thing work, do they, seems to be the question asked by fourth year arts students, Eva Bligh, 21, of 26 Midwood Road, and Marjorie Howell, 20, of 2685 Topp Avenue, as they gazed spellbound at the wiring of an accounting machine, part of Victoria University's new electronic brain which arrived yesterday. — (Robin Clarke).

University Gets Brain

By TED GASKELL

First units of a $125,000 electronic brain, which will bring space-age education to Victoria, were unpacked at the university here yesterday.

The brain, which comprises a high speed computer and an accounting machine, are essential to modern education, university authorities feel, and to send a mathematics or science graduate out into the world without some knowledge of, or familiarity with the computer is like sending a one-armed man to fight Sonny Liston.

While a man blinks his eye once, the computer could add two 10-digit figures and be wondering why more information wasn't being fed in, to quote Hyron Ehle, of the university's mathematics department.

Not only can it add, subtract, multiply and divide as an ordinary desk calculator can — at a much greater speed — but it can also select the larger of two numbers.

In two seconds it can take a man's time sheet, add the total working hours, take off the deductions and print his paycheck with the correct net amount on it.

Completing marks and working out averages which normally take five or six people a good week to do can be done by the machine in a couple of hours. Preparing a timetable becomes comparatively easy work.

And that's not all. Not only can it take figures, digest them and return an answer in a fraction of time it takes a man, but it also has a built-in memory device which can retain 20,000 digits while an auxiliary unit can hold a similar amount.

This means that 20 problems containing 1,000 figures each can be "stored" in the machine or 10,000 sets of two digits or any other combination of 20,000.

Not only the university will use the machine, but it will be available to the forestry department, the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory and other public bodies for their research and calculations. But if private industry were to use the machine, then the university would lose its 60-per-cent discount.

Units which arrived yesterday included the accounting machine, a card punch unit and a card sorter. The computer itself with auxiliary memory unit should be here today and in use on a test run Friday.

Between now and Christmas faculty members will take a familiarization course on the machine and in the New Year it will be put to work.

Parker Fined 50 Cents

A man was fined 50 cents in city magistrate's court yesterday after he was found guilty of angle parking in a parallel parking area.

Mr. Oulter commented the fine reflected the gravity of the case in observing that the area, on Blanshard at View, had recently been changed from angle to parallel parking, there were no signs to indicate the change, and other cars in the area were parked at an angle.

Pasquale Liberatore, 1118 Caledonia, had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

will continue as the district continues to grow and they can see no end to shifts unless more rooms are built.

The committee has protested the shift system to the school board and the provincial government and is encouraging other area PTAs to do the same.

It also urges that MLEAs should be asked to change the bylaw system to one which permits schools to be built when needed.

B.C. is one of the few provinces where money bylaws are needed for school construction, the committee said.

Sweaters Softer Washed by Hand

By PATRICIA BUSAK
TORONTO (CP)—Old-fashioned, gentle hand laundering is the best way to keep sweaters looking soft and new.

This was learned when manufacturers, home economists and other experts gave instructions for the care of one of the most basic garments in every woman's wardrobe.

Among synthetic fibre sweaters, those of Orion acrylic fibre—also labelled as Sayelle or Tycora—can be as safely laundered in an automatic washer and dryer as by hand, its manufacturers say.

But if drying these sweaters in a machine, always remove them before they are completely dry and let them finish drying on a flat surface. One expert recommended putting towels in the dryer with the sweater.

Bulky sweaters of Orion Sayelle have been treated for automatic-blocking—they will come out of the wash water several sizes larger than they were originally but will revert to their original shape while drying.

The manufacturers of Orion Sayelle say that if you machine-wash the fabric, machine-dry it. If you hand-wash it, dry it on a flat surface.

Ban-Lon sweaters, also of synthetic fibre, should be washed by hand in lukewarm water and mild soap with no rubbing or twisting. They should be rinsed until the water is clear, the excess moisture should be removed in a towel and the sweaters spread flat to dry.

Ironing and steaming is not recommended for synthetic-fibre sweaters because excessive heat can harden or glaze the fabric or, in the case of nylon or Ban-Lon, melt it.

The ever-popular wool sweater should be washed by soaking in soap and lukewarm water for about five minutes.

Contrary to popular belief, it is not soap and water but rather excessive agitation which causes shrinkage in washing, the wool experts say. Hot water and alkaline soap will increase the likelihood of shrinkage.

Machine washable and dryable sweaters are being developed by the wool industry but few of these are available in stores. Do not wash a wool sweater in a machine unless the garment's label says "machine-wash-and-dry."

Mohair sweaters of natural goat's hair are popular this season and several retailers recommend they be dry-cleaned. Because they are so loosely-knit, the weight of water could pull them out of shape.

If you must wash a mohair sweater, treat it as gently as paper towels; leave outside moist. Use ½ teaspoon mono-

Golden-Brown Turkey Tasty Holiday Fare

The juicy, golden-brown turkey on the holiday table is good reason to give thanks for the abundance of the season.

Allow about one-half pound ready-to-cook turkey per serving when purchasing the bird—and allow extra weight for seconds, sandwiches, and the incomparable turkey hash.

METHOD
Wash turkey in cold running water. Pat inside dry with paper towels; leave outside moist. Use ½ teaspoon mono-sodium glutamate per pound of turkey ready to stuff. Set aside half the total amount for the dressing and gravy; divide the remainder between skin and body cavities. Sprinkle cavities also with salt and pepper. Stuff turkey.

Fasten neck skin to body with skewer. Push legs under band of skin at tail, or tie them to tail. Place turkey, breast side up, on rack in shallow open roasting pan. If desired, cover with a loose covering or "tent" of aluminum foil.

Roast turkey in a slow oven (325°F.), according to weight. Cook the bird 3½ to 4 hours for a 6 to 8-pound turkey; 4 to 4½ hours for an 8 to 12-pound bird; 4½ to 5½ hours for a 12 to 16-pound bird; 5½ to 6½ hours for a 16 to 20-pound bird; 6½ to 7 hours for a 20 to 24-pound bird.

You cannot replace your mother in your father's life and you shouldn't try. If you really want to help your dad pick up the pieces, encourage him to make new friendships. Remember that life is for the living.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine met a writer at a party and liked him instantly. She said he warmed up to her at once and they got along famously. She decided to pop in on him about two weeks later and felt that a phone call or written note in advance would have spoiled the "surprise."

So she just went over one afternoon. (He works at home.) When my friend arrived she found a note tacked to his front door. It read: "If you are uninvited and unexpected you are also unwelcome." She said she felt as if she'd been slapped across the face with a wet towel.

What do you think of a person who would tack up such a message on his front door?

Dear Mark: My off-hand guess is that a person who would tack up such a message on his front door does not wish to be dropped in on by anyone—not even people with whom he gets on famously at parties.

Pumpkin Recipes from Europe

By BASIL FITZGERALD

Pumpkins in North America are usually associated with Halloween, but we should remember the story of Cinderella—her coach was manufactured or to be more precise converted by wizardry out of a pumpkin. This gives us a clue that the pumpkin is not used exclusively by North Americans.

A number of European countries also use the pumpkin and we can learn a great deal from some of their recipes—after all, why should we only think of pie when we think of pumpkin.

PURÉE OF PUMPKIN SOUP

Peel and cut one pound of pumpkin into uniform pieces. Cook in 3 tablespoons of butter and 4 tablespoons of water in a covered pan. Season with a good pinch of salt. When the pumpkin is quite soft, rub it through a fine sieve. Put the puree back into the pan, dilute it to the desired consistency with 3 to 4 cups of consommé, bring to the boil and finish off with 4 tablespoons of fresh butter. Serve with small croutons sautéed in butter.

GRATIN OF PUMPKIN WITH RICE

Cut enough pumpkin to fill a good sized shallow baking dish—pare and blanch for a short time in boiling salted water. Drain and dry. Slice the pumpkin and sauté gently in a generous amount of butter and transfer to the baking dish in the following manner: place a layer of pumpkin slices, add a layer of rice which has been cooked in a good stock, sprinkle with grated cheese; repeat layers until the dish is filled.

Miss Neff, her mother, Mrs. J. R. Neff, her mother, Mrs. J. R. Neff, and the mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. J. A. Nickell of Nanaimo, were presented with dainty corsages. Gifts were presented in a clothes basket made to resemble a basket of flowers in a pink and pale green theme. There were 40 guests.

Mrs. R. Machan was the winner of the "lucky cup" prize and winners of other contests were Miss Virginia Booth and Miss Lois Hyam.

During the serving of refreshments, Miss Neff cut a decorated shower cake.

sprinkle with grated cheese and pour on melted butter—brown in a warm oven. I might add that this particular recipe is very good with pork or veal. It would be unfair to give pumpkin recipes without including the pie, so here goes:

SOUP CREAM PUMPKIN PIE

Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Bake the shell in a very hot oven (450 degrees) for 10 minutes, and cool it.

In the top of a double boiler over hot water combine ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ginger, ¼ teaspoon each of nutmeg and salt, and a pinch of ground cloves. Blend in thoroughly 1½ cups pumpkin puree and 3 beaten egg yolks and stir in 1 cup sour cream. Cook the custard, stirring constantly until it thickens. Beat 3 egg whites until they form soft peaks, beat in ½ cup sugar, and fold the meringue into the pumpkin mixture. Turn the filling into the partially baked crust and bake the pie in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes, or until the top is browned. This is a wonderful pie and served with whipped cream is a sure fire success. Remember when you whip the cream, add a tablespoon of cognac at the last minute—it makes a great deal of difference. Bon appetit!

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Am I a neurotic with a persecution complex as my husband says, or do I have the right to expect more out of marriage than I am getting?

Last spring I was in an automobile accident and I broke my leg. I telephoned my husband from the emergency ward of the hospital. He was at my brother's house playing poker. When I told him what had happened he said, "I'm about $40 ahead right now and running a hot streak. I think I'd better stay in the game and make the hospital bill." So he sent my brother over and stayed in the game.

When his own mother died he took so many nerve pills before the funeral he went out like a light. He was unable to attend the services and never knew a thing until the next day.

Our own children do not get sick very often, but when they do he remembers a fishing date and leaves town. May I hear from you on this? —MARRIED BUT ALONE.

Dear Married But: Your husband is not sufficiently grown up to face discomfort or unpleasantness, so when something challenging occurs he takes a duck. Such a man cannot be depended on in time of crisis. He folds like an accordion so, in a very real sense your signature describes your situation accurately.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 18-year-old girl, popular, and I live in a lovely home. My mother died a year ago and now I am the lady of the house.

My father is still young (43) successful in his profession and he's very good-looking. Already several women are chasing him and I don't blame them. I feel, however, that so long as I am at home he should not consider remarriage.

Father was inconsolable for months after mom died and now that he's coming out of it he seems to be paying a lot of attention to a certain woman in our church. She is nice but how could he possibly put his arms around another woman and bring her into mother's home as his wife? What position would that place me in?

This woman has two children of her own and they would have to be part of our family. Please don't tell me how I'm wrong. Just tell me how

Provincial WI

Third Scholarship Awarded

Miss Nancy Stubbs of Oliver was winner of a $250 scholarship awarded by the provincial board of British Columbia Women's Institutes. The board voted to award this third scholarship at a meeting held in the Victoria office Wednesday morning.

Previous scholarships were awarded to Donna K. Eaton, Francois Lake, and Ralph McQueen, Dawson Creek.

Donation of $100 was also voted for relief of the 300,000 made homeless by cyclone and tidal wave in Pakistan.

A second edition of the WI centennial cook book has proved so successful that board members decided to set up a centennial scholarship from the proceeds.

It was reported that the West Indian project was well under way, with 2,120 books already sent to the West Indies to help in formation of new libraries.

Also growing is the northern expansion project, designed to form institutes in the Mackenzie district and to bring out Indian and Eskimo girls in order to train them in homemaking, home nursing, teaching and leadership so that they can return to their communities as future leaders.

The board has received 26 samplers and seven oil paintings from provincial institutes which will be considered for entry in the Tweedsmuir competition, which is triennial and embodies handicrafts, village work and citizenship. One-act plays on village history and municipal work are also being entered. Deadline for this competition is Dec. 15.

In celebration of Canada's centennial, B.C. Institutes will join other provinces in a Canadian mosaic project which will see an illustrated book on Canadian history being compiled in provincial sections.

AT MEETING
Deadline for this project is January, 1965. On completion of this book, one copy will be sent to Queen Elizabeth and the other donated to the national library at Ottawa.

All board members were in attendance at yesterday's meeting. They are Mrs. R. C. Palmer, Kelowna, president; Mrs. R. Partington, Francois Lake;

Mrs. E. G. Woodward, Brentwood Bay; Mrs. J. S. Scott, Robson; Mrs. F. M. Plant, Williams Lake; Mrs. J. H. McMillan, Qualicum Beach; Mrs. Lyle Braden, Dawson Creek; Mrs. H. C. Ford, Tappen, and Miss Patricia Holden, Victoria.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Philip Holmes, who has spent the past week in Winnipeg, will return to Victoria on Friday.

Easy to Spot

If He Flirts He's Married

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — Girls, can you spot a married man on sight?

British girls can. At least a lot of them say they can.

If true, possibly it's nature's way of compensating for the fact that in Britain husbands are not marked men—they don't wear wedding rings.

In fact a wedding ring is such a rarity with men that Dame Rebecca West, author and journalist, remarked in her account of a recent sensational court trial the bewigged judge was wearing one.

Rosamoy Bain of The Daily Herald took it from there. A ring isn't necessary for a woman to spot a married man, she wrote.

"As any woman will tell you, it has nothing to do with wearing a ring or not. Married men are either quietly confident or sadly resigned to their lot."

Her acid test is the mention of children.

"The chap who has any will usually react to the mention of first teeth, first steps and first term at school."

And Miss Bain also says married men flirt more than bachelors.

"These married chaps can say quite outrageous things, knowing it's all a game and they are soon catching the train home to wife and children."

"It flatters their vanity. But they mustn't imagine we are fooled."

Miss Bain invited her readers to send in their favorite test for spotting married men.

A librarian wrote she could spot a husband not by the books he borrowed but by the fact he wiped his feet on the mat before entering.

A former salesgirl said married men carefully check their change-bachelors stuff it into their pockets with hardly a glance.

Another relied on a sure test handed down to her by her mother—"If his ears droop, he's married." Another said most pipe-smoking men were married.

One woman wrote that all married men have a "prisoner-of-war" look—they look puzzled as to how they got caught."

And so, girls, if you spot a pipe-smoking man with drooping ears and a puzzled frown, who stands counting his change, it's 10-to-1 he's somebody's husband.

Exchange Vows In St. Mark's

St. Mark's Anglican church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening when Marilyn-Rae Savage and Joseph Thomson Almond exchanged vows before Canon R. Willis.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Savage, 43 Cadillac Avenue, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white Chantilly lace with net panels over satin. Seed pearls were at the neckline and the skirt swept into a full train. Her full length veil of tulle, edged with Chantilly lace, fell from a coronet. Carried a bouquet of white lilies.

Mrs. J. B. Snare, matron of honor, wore a floor length gown of American Beauty peau de sole featuring back

Bridge Tea Raises $200

The glowing colors of autumn were carried out in the floral decorations in the nurses' home for the annual bridge and tea given by St. Joseph's School of Nursing Alumnae yesterday afternoon and evening.

Well over $200 was realized at the successful affair. Mrs. Maurice Cownden and Mrs. R. Adams presided at the table centred with a bowl of dahlias and roses, flanked by pink tapers.

Mrs. A. Bridge and Mrs. D. Eden were co-conveners and Mrs. E. Lewis, assisted by Mrs. H. Gandy, looked after the tea. The Sister Mary Anne Scholarship committee sold aprons under the convensership of Mrs. C. Lewis, assisted by Mrs. W. McLuhan.

Miss A. Cheatham and Miss B. George were in charge of contests.

fullness. Tulle veiling formed her headpiece and she carried white feathered chrysanthe-mums and rosebuds.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Almond, 2802 Prior, had Mr. R. Stapleton as best man. Mr. J. Dunn and Mr. L. W. Savage, brother of the bride, showed guests to the pews.

A reception followed at the Tally-Ho Travellers.

For a honeymoon in the United States the bride wore a mint trimmed brown velvet wide brimmed brown velvet hat and corsage of yellow rosebuds. They will make their home in Victoria.

WBA to Mark 71st Year

CHEMANUS — The regular meeting of the WBA Review 19 was held recently with Mrs. J. Whitlaw presiding.

Three new members, Mrs. N. Southern, Miss Jeanie Shaw, and Miss Elaine Cain, were initiated. Mrs. James Cook took part in the initiatory work.

Members of the Nanaimo Review will be guests at the next meeting on the occasion of the 71st anniversary of the order. A banquet and entertainment will follow the meeting.

Annual donations were made to the Cerebral Palsy Fund, the Cenotaph Fund, and a wreath was ordered for Remembrance Day.

In observance of the 71st anniversary, it was decided that instead of the usual cash donation to Chemainus General Hospital, the Review would purchase a much-needed wheelchair for the hospital.

Raise Marriage Age

By HAROLD TILLEY
CANBERRA (CP)—Australia's new Marriage Act, which has just come into force, raises the minimum ages for marriage throughout Australia and prohibits marriages between persons who have become closely related by adoption.

The minimum ages for marriage have been lifted from 12 to 16 years for girls and from 16 to 18 years for boys. Parents may not waive the minimum age requirement at all. A court may do so in "exceptional cases" if one of the parties is above minimum age; but pregnancy is not acceptable as a reason for variation.

Even where both parties are above the minimum age but one or both are under 21 years, written parental consent must be in the hands of the celebrant to make a marriage valid.

Children born out of wedlock are legitimized by the subsequent valid marriage of the parents. A man may not marry his adopted niece unless specially permitted by a Supreme Court judge to meet exceptional circumstances excluding pregnancy but the court cannot give permission in any circumstances to a marriage where the relationship through adoption has become that of parent or brother or sister.

Six New Members Join Auxiliary

At the meeting of Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital on Monday, the president, Mrs. H. S. Jarvis, welcomed six of the new library workers to membership of the auxiliary. They were Mrs. R. C. Alder, Mrs. Edith Simmonds, Mrs. Constance Hargrave, Mrs. E. Henderson, Mrs. J. E. Lawrence, Mrs. H. C. Downing. Others joined at the close of the meeting.

Mrs. H. S. Jarvis reported a bank balance of $3,146.30.

Mrs. F. T. S. Schl reported on the sale of dogwood pins and earrings.

Mrs. F. R. Roberts had sent out eight cards during the month.

Mrs. P. Newman asked for decorative material for the harvest festival in the Veterans' Chapel. She had been searching in vain for a sheaf of wheat.

Mrs. F. E. De Wile reported that 484 library books had been distributed during the month.

Mrs. J. Lewis reported that the plea for more library workers in the daily papers had brought such a good response that the library was now working at full strength with 48 members on the book trolleys and the desk.

Several of the new workers offered their services to Mrs. F. R. Roberts, who always convenes the selling of poppies on the Women's Auxiliary annual tag day, Nov. 9.

Fourth Time Since 1921

This week Miss Frith's Millinery is being enlarged for the fourth time since 1921. It was founded in 1921 by Miss Frith, who is now retired, in a small shop near the Empress Hotel. It later moved to larger premises at 1619 Douglas Street which it shared for several years with Francis Jewellers. When Francis Jewellers moved to a new location across the street, Miss Frith's Millinery doubled its size. Miss Frith's Fashions, which occupies premises recently vacated by a meat market, has floor space almost equal to which it shared for several years with Francis Jewellers.

MISS FRITH FASHIONS, seen here under construction, adjoining present millinery shop, will carry a full line of ladies' wear including sportswear, dresses, suits, coats. This is fourth expansion in 42 years.

Miss Frith's Expands

Fashion Store For All Tastes

A 42-year-old Victoria business is doubling its size this week as Miss Frith's on Douglas Street adds a fashion store to its present millinery shop. The new ladies' wear section, scheduled to open this weekend, has its own separate entrance on Douglas Street, but is joined to the millinery shop by a wide archway.

The new department, called Miss Frith's Fashions, will sell a complete line of ladies' wear including coats, suits, dresses and sportswear.

The present Miss Frith's Millinery has long been a popular accessory shop and boasts the largest selection of millinery of any specialty shop in Canada.

FOR ALL TASTES
The new extension will handle, according to owner-operator Wyn Sinclair, "a selective cross-section of all types of merchandise, to suit all tastes and budgets."

"We plan to cater to all our patrons as we have done in the past. There is practically nothing we won't do for our customers."

Miss Frith's Fashions has been designed by architect Clive Campbell to catch the eye of motorists as well as pedestrians on both sides of the street.

The store front, embellished with B.C. wood products, is brown and beige with a touch of black wrought iron.

SPECIAL GLASS
The transoms over the show windows have been fitted with a special bronze-colored polished plate glass.

Much of the metal entrance is of anodized aluminum, and the show windows are British polished plate glass.

Mr. Sinclair said he has confidence in the future of the downtown area.

"Only the downtown area

... owner

can offer breadth and depth in the selection of goods now on the market," he said.

LOTS OF PARKING

"We in particular are in an area of established merchants with long experience in serving Victorians."

"There are about 1,500 parking places within a radius of two blocks, and more will be added when the new civic centre is completed."

"There is a definite move toward this end of town."

Teen-agers Tackle Business Problems

By REFORD MacDOUGALL, MONTREAL (CP) — Where more than 400 teen-agers in the Montreal area will run their own businesses starting this fall.

They will elect boards of directors, sell stock, make products and, hopefully, end their financial year in a position to pay dividends to shareholders. More than 25 leading Montreal firms will help the youngsters—but with advice only.

Ken Tremblay, 41, a Rotary Club organizer, got 15 teen-age companies going last year in the Lakeshore community of Pointe Claire. This year he started up 15 in the Montreal suburb of St. Laurent.

The project, called Junior Achievement, was started with the hope of having teen-age capitalism flourishing in five communities in five years. "So far we're on schedule," Mr. Tremblay remarked.

Junior Achievement clubs also exist in Vancouver, Windsor, Ont., Calgary, Brantford, Ont., London, Ont., and Winnipeg.

The miniature companies are made up of 15 to 20 girls and boys between the ages of 15 and 19.

The teen-agers first decide on a product to manufacture—anything from ashtrays or Christmas cards to washboards. Then they choose a company name and start selling stock to friends, relatives and others.

Once they have money, they buy raw materials and tools and begin production. Teen-age salesmen go door-to-door in their spare time selling products.

Executives get paid salaries, workmen wages and salesmen commissions.

Once a week each company gets advice from executives in Montreal firms operating related businesses.

At the end of the school year, the companies go out of business. They pay shareholders dividends if they have made a profit, a percentage of the assets if they haven't.

It's a Far Cry From Flying Transports

Owner of Miss Frith's Millinery and the new Miss Frith Fashions is Wyn Sinclair, who operates the two stores at 1613 and 1617 Douglas Street with his wife, Helen.

Mr. Sinclair, 41, was born in Boyle, Alberta, a small town near Edmonton. He was educated in Alberta, and spent nearly six years in the RCAF as a flying officer. He flew a transport for one of those years in India and Burma.

He worked for the Hudson's Bay Company for 11 years in Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg.

He and his wife, Helen, have one son, Neil, who is a grade 11 student at Oak Bay High School.

Mr. Sinclair is a boating and golfing enthusiast, a

dent of the Oak Bay Senior High Parents' Auxiliary, and a past president of the Oak Bay Junior High PTA.

Decorating Soap New Fad

NEW YORK (UPI)—The newest fad bubbling on the home front couples soap with art.

Housewives, career women and teen-agers are joining in turning cakes of soap into decorative objects either for use in the house, for gifts, for bridge or party favors, and for sale for the benefit of assorted community projects.

Just about any household odd or end can be used for decorating—beads, felt, buttons, net, sequins, ribbon and decal. One manufacturer, whose soap bars are being turned into objects of art, said samples of decorated bars have been arriving at its offices by the thousands. At first, they were sent in voluntarily. Then the firm decided to make some promotional use of the samples and gathered more.

From the collection, the company chose 300 examples which it put on exhibit in New York this week and later will display in banks or other institutional and office buildings in the south, the midwest and on the west coast.

Just how the fad started, or where, the sponsors of the exhibit haven't determined.

But one owner of a market in St. Paul, Minn., said, "It seems like all the housewives get the same idea at the same time for do-it-yourself hobby gifts. They use everything—soap, macaroni, plastic bleach bottles—and we always run out," said owner Jack Tallen.

"Two years ago it was toothpicks for building Christmas trees," said Dave Colt, manager of a Minneapolis market. "You couldn't find a toothpick in the store the week before Christmas. Last year, I was ready for them, but instead they cleaned me out of soap. I sold only 10 boxes of toothpicks. I've enough toothpicks left to build a subdivision."

The sponsors of the soapy art, SweetHeart checked out what some of the individual artists were doing and what became of the results.

They found Mrs. Theresa Handley of Chicago teaching her church youth group to carve soap fish (fish are a favorite design), to be used as gifts for parents and teachers for Christmas. Mrs. F. Wolfrey of Atlantic Jersey, N.J., pasted decals on oval bars and painted the raised scrollwork.

Mrs. Thomas Duff of Burlington, Vt., cuts scenes from antique gift cards, pastes them on the soap and attaches a miniature letter to the person to whom she's sending the gift.

Mrs. Bernard Sutton, Yakima, Wash., and 300 other members of the women's guild of the Yakima Valley Memorial Hospital decorate soap to sell in the hospital's gift shop. Sales in the last year have raised $700 to purchase new equipment for the hospital.

Housewives in Detroit and St. Louis create colorful soap fish and sell them at church bazaars. A senior citizens club in St. Paul decorates bars and does other crafts to sell to supplement retirement income. A group of women in Nekeona, Wis., sold enough decorated soap bars to purchase extra equipment for the school lunchroom.

The exhibit sponsors said that the decorating also was being used in some cities as a craft easy to teach cerebral palsy children. And in St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Elsie Henschbuehler sells bars to raise funds for charity and also has helped to form decorating clubs in 21 girl and boy scout troops.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

The Hanna-Barbera combination that has produced cartoon series like the Flintstones, Jetsons, Quick-Draw McGraw and Huckleberry Hound has received the ultimate accolade.

They won't be able to put it in their trophy room (although they might well want to), and it isn't exactly the sort of thing they can trot out to show the company. But no doubt they'll treasure it for ever.

"It" is a girl, an entertainer who has taken the name Hanna-Barbera for stage purposes. She's a stripper.

Don't feel sorry for Bob Newhart, who was booted out of his TV series but obviously isn't missing too many meals.

Newhart was recently signed to do a one-night stand at a party thrown by a Texas oilman. Newhart got $15,000.

Of Russia

—Adenauer

BERLIN (AP)—West German Chancellor Adenauer Wednesday night assailed western wheat sales to the Soviet Union while President Kennedy was approving deliveries of up to $250,000,000 worth of U.S. wheat to the Iron Curtain nations.

"We must connect the wall in Berlin with the sale of foodstuffs," the 67-year-old chancellor declared on his last visit to the divided city before stepping down from the chancellorship.

He said the Communist "bait wall must go before there is any easing of tension."

Adenauer told a press conference the West should exploit the economic and political difficulties of the Soviet Union.

The striking teachers posted at least one of their members at each of the 20 schools to prevent damage to the schools and to prevent anyone from forcing entry into the locked buildings.
Only one separate school — in Sherwood Park — was open as the rest of the teachers walked off their jobs to back pay increase demands.

The separate school teachers have another contract and are not involved in the strike which affects those in public schools.
The county is located just southeast of Edmonton.

Teachers are asking for a $10-hike in the annual increase for teachers with three years training, $25 for those with four years, $35 for five years and $45 for six years. Maximums now range from $6,300 for teachers with three years training to $8,630 for those with six years.

School board officials told a public meeting Tuesday night the board was willing to give the teachers an increase but the demands were more than the amount recommended in the conciliation report.

Garden Notes

There's No Easy Way

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRBS

At this season of the year, one of the jobs to be done in the garden is the all-important work of overhauling the rock garden. Newly constructed alpine gardens won't need too much attention, but those which have been established for some time require a bit of fall care to keep them up to scratch for next year's display.

The first thing to be done is to correct any overcrowding that has taken place. During the past summer, some of the pushers and shovers of the plant world will have over-run the more delicate and less aggressive specimens. Such rampant growers should be dug up carefully with a good ball of soil around the roots and shifted to a pocket where the rock walls will keep their over-exuberance within bounds.

Weeds are always a major headache in the rock garden, for there are no short-cut methods of controlling them. You can't use the hoe or spray them with chemicals, and there is nothing for it but to get down on your hunkers and pull them out by hand.

With the perennial weeds, it is necessary to get out every bit of root, for every tiny section left in the ground will sprout and grow again. When such weeds have entangled themselves with one of your rock plants, the whole clump should be taken up, the soil gently shaken from the roots, and the weed roots separated with as little disturbance as possible to the alpine. Planted back firmly, and watered in with a drop or two of vitamin B1 in the water to help stave off transplanting shock, the little plant should forge right ahead and be none the worse for its experience.

Just as a houseplant will outgrow its pot eventually, so will some long-established plant in the rock garden outgrow the pocket in which it is planted. Such root-bound specimens should be lifted and divided, and the pocket dug out and replenished with fresh soil of the correct type for that particular kind of plant. The sooner this is done, the better, for root divisions establish themselves more successfully when there is a fair amount of warmth in the soil.

Some rock plants, usually those of a tufted habit of growth, will have grown to such an extent that their crowns are now too high above the soil surface, heaving themselves up out of the ground in much the same way as a neglected strawberry plant does.

In most cases, it won't be necessary to dig up and replant deeper—the condition can usually be corrected simply by applying a top dressing around the collar of the plant. Use limestone chips for the lime lovers, and a mixture of coarse sand and peat moss for the acid-loving plants.

It is important, too, to remove all fallen leaves and dead and decaying foliage, for these tend to smother the little plants and they provide convenient cover for slugs and snails. If these pests are noticed, strew a few slug bait pellets under the spreading leaves of the plant.

With a recently constructed rock garden, it is more than likely that some of the boulders will have settled a bit deeper than their original position. This isn't necessarily bad, but if it doesn't look right, the offending rocks should be levered up and the bases made firm by inserting flat pieces of stone beneath them. When carrying out this work, DO try to keep the grain of the stone running in the same plane as the rest of the rocks, otherwise it won't have a truly natural appearance. Each stone should be placed to slope slightly backward, channeling the surface water to the roots of the plant in the pocket behind it.

The Sporting World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Lucy and Frankie Tee Off

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Lucille Ball and Frank Sinatra are the big money folk behind the new Canyon Golf course in Palm Springs. And Lucille's husband Gary Morris landed the job of TV coordinator at the big tournament. The prize money will go as high as $100,000. Lucille will appear for Mr. Morton on the opener. Also Jack Benny.

Romy Schneider is weeping into her beer at those reports parading back from Europe that her Alma DeLeon is showing more than a professional interest in his co-star, Jane Fonda. Romy sees three men in Hollywood where she is starring in Good Neighbor Sam—her hairdresser, her secretary and her agent. That's par for the Hollywood course.

Bette Davis described one of her recent leading men as "a dirty little boy. The kind that stands under street gratings to watch the girls go by." He'd faint, and so would you, if I revealed his name. But I agree with her.

I guess Carol Linsley needs the money. She slipped into New York quietly last week and signed for a soft drink TV commercial.

A pretty sight in Rome: Sophia Loren, wearing pants and a masculine coat, strutting down a street, twirling a cane. Roman dress strange things to people. . . . When Vivian Leigh feels up to it, there's a TV series waiting for her at ABC.

Have you written to your parents lately? Bona Hunter, successful Hollywood producer, writes to his father every single day.

Julie Newman, almost as tall as Anna Quayle, will play her role in Stop the World—I Want to Get Off when the British actress leaves the hit play in November at the same time as Tony Newby. I hear that Joel Grey will step in for Tony.

Producer Theo Mann had sent his movie version of Six Characters in Search of an Author to a lady in search of a fifth husband, Elizabeth Taylor. But her agent said no, and the film will be offered to Joan Collins, who was the original choice of Spyglass for Cleopatra.

Robert Goulet back in Los Angeles to make his and his wife's, Carol Lawrence, is in the east on career business. Some people believe that absence is wrong for a new marriage. Others, and I know a couple myself, seem to thrive on it. But I am sure that when Carol has a baby, her career will not be as important to her. And if heredity counts for anything, and I think it does, what a talented baby they could have.

JANE . . . ooh!

Shirley MacLaine and husband Steve Parker paid $100,000 for the Happy Pappy. That's a boat not a parent. They could hardly go to sea in the Happy Pappy, so it is now called the Sachiko, the pet name for seven-year-old image of Shirley, daughter Stephanie. Shirley was saying between What a Way to Go takes that the Sachiko has been crated and will be shipped to Japan for the use of Mr. Parker who is again making movies there.

Arthur Miller's new play, to premiere with Ellen Kasse's direction will reveal something of what went on in his marriage to Marilyn Monroe. They were mismatched, but how happy they both seemed at the beginning.

Fail to Succeed

Failures abound at every turn. There are wrecked marriages wrecked family relationships wrecked businesses and careers. In fact, in many ways, one looks out upon life and wonders whether there is a tomorrow in store for the world itself.

But by the side of these failures, there is success—the success of failure. From our failures we can move on to new visions, to new visions of ourselves, to new understanding, sympathy and compassion, to tenderer and more mature relationships with ourselves and with others.

We have a habit of remembering evil and hurt. This is bad. But we also have a habit of promising ourselves not to repeat our mistakes, to seek higher levels of achievement, new dimensions of experience. And this is good.

Thomas Edison once said that after 50,000 experiments in seeking to come upon the invention of his incandescent light bulb, he had not a sense of failure, but one of success. "How so?" asked one of his younger assistants. "How can you say this, Dr. Edison, when 50,000 times we have failed to achieve what we sought."

"Ah, my young friend," he replied, "you will one day be old enough to understand what I will tell you now. We have not failed altogether. In fact, we have succeeded in discovering 50,000 things that won't work. Now we won't make the same mistakes." What Edison was saying needs to be re-said, and learned well. Success is never final or ultimate. Indeed, every achievement brings new problems, new issues, new dilemmas. But neither need failure be final or ultimate. Every failure has lessons to teach, if we would only seek to remember.

There is a promise built into human nature, and we have promises to keep. Robert Frost, the great American poet, put it in a unique and memorable way:

"The woods are lovely, dark and deep, But I have promises to keep, And miles to go before I sleep— And miles to go before I sleep."

Mr. Frost once read these lines before a college audience in his starkly inimitable way. At the close of the reading, one student asked him: "Mr. Frost, what promises?" "Oh," said he, "promises to myself and to my ancestors." Here is the rub of it. What makes a man live beyond his 80th year, as Frost did, feeling that he still has miles to go before he sleeps? The promises he has to keep! Promises to himself and to his ancestors!

We, too, have promises to keep. We may not be prophets, poets, philosophers, or sages. We may not find all the answers to all of our questions. But we, too, have promises to keep—our own promises: to keep our heads and our hearts. To look away from failure toward achievement. To remember that there is a spark of God within us and never to forget the divinity we do possess!

William Hocking, a professor of philosophy, once said: "In the question of possibility, negative experience counts for nothing—if there is a single significant positive experience."

Fifty thousand times wrong means nothing, if once we'll be right. This is where our eyes should be tightly focused: Not upon the universality of failure, but upon the possibility of fulfillment!

What You Get When You Buy Clairtone Stereo

★ No tubes—five-year guarantee—Old-fashioned tubes are replaced by a solid state system so there's no heat deterioration, and the quality of sound won't deteriorate. Uses 1/10 electricity consumed by normal sets.

★ New aluminum horn speakers—Each housed separately, totally enclosed by heavy wood, in expensive acoustically designed bass reflex enclosure. Sound flows out unimpeded, majestically, doesn't ricochet inside set.

★ Electronic Indicators for balance control that take the guesswork out of balancing. Simply turn the balance control until both lights glow evenly. Speakers are in perfect balance—yet you can, if you wish, accentuate either side... can be tuned like any fine instrument.

★ Hand-crafted, substantial furniture that has won design awards... provides an efficient enclosure for speakers, is graceful and tasteful (the name Clairtone never appears on the outside). Grains are laboriously matched, even on the inside.

★ Famous Garrard Record Changers ignore power surges, have a floating stylus that never scratches—your records last the best part of a lifetime. Turntable meticulously balanced, player arm adjustable to featherweight touches.

Polluted Water Treated

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—Officials Wednesday dumped chemicals into the source of this city's water supply in a bid to end a pollution crisis.

Supplies of powdered hypochlorite were dumped into hill-top Loch Lomond following an emergency warning Tuesday the water was contaminated and unfit for human consumption unless boiled or chlorinated.

FIFTY TIMES

The lake, which provides the city's 46,000 residents with drinking water, was reported to contain up to 50 times more contaminating organisms than would be acceptable in an ordinary swimming pool.

The warning was issued by City Health Officer Dr. M. R. Warren and Mayor E. H. Reed following an emergency session called by city council.

COLIFORM BACTERIA

They said the water contained coliform bacteria and escherichia coli, the latter organism found in animal or human intestinal tracts.

Fort William had never followed through with an often-proposed chlorinating program but officials began installing a permanent treatment plant in the wake of the warning.

Dr. Warren said Wednesday residual chlorine began to appear in the distribution system following the hypochlorite treatment. If further bacteriological tests proved favorable, the emergency may end within 48 hours.

Pay Up Nations Told

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada warned yesterday that it will not support any further reduction in the share poorer countries will be expected to pay to keep the United Nations Congo force operating.

The Canadian position was put before the general assembly's budgetary committee by Senator T. D'Arcy Leonard as the committee considered an African resolution that would keep the force alive through the first six months of 1964.

LAST HALF

The resolution provides for continuation of the cost-sharing formula used to finance the force in the last half of this year. But a number of Latin American countries, led by Argentina, have asked that the "less-developed" countries get a better break this time.

Leonard said Canada believes peace-keeping costs should be a collective responsibility of all members and that peace-keeping operations are "just as much in the interest of the nations far from the scene of trouble as those in the immediate vicinity."

Kennedy Defends CIA Role

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy Wednesday staunchly defended the role of the Central Intelligence Agency in South Viet Nam, asserting that charges of CIA conflict with U.S. policy there are "unfair" and "wholly untrue."

The president, at his news conference gave flat public assurance that the secret intelligence organization was not pursuing an independent course in the Communist-threatened south-east Asian country.

The CIA is conducting its operations under close direction of the White House and the National Security Council, Kennedy declared.

The chief executive acknowledged that the intelligence organization has made "mistakes" from time to time but he also emphasized that many of its successes, because of their secret nature, have been "unheralded."

Cyclone Kills 20

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—At least 20 persons were killed Monday in a cyclone which ripped through Barisal and Comilla, two coastal districts of Pakistan, according to information received here Wednesday.

Wheat Sale Okay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Wednesday night approved the sale of U.S. wheat to Russia and Communist nations of Eastern Europe. He spoke in the terms of transactions ranging from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000.

This could mean disposal of perhaps 200,000,000 bushels of wheat at world prices through private channels.

Kennedy said the U.S. obviously would benefit. He ruled out any sales to Cuba or Communist China.

In anti-climactic fashion, the president made the long-expected announcement of a shift in U.S. policy toward trade with the Communists at a press conference.

Wheat Trouble

By ARCH MACKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — United States criticism about Canadian wheat price patterns had authorities here puzzled Wednesday.

Concern whether the U.S. intends to launch a price war between the two main wheat exporting countries of the West was mixed with some puzzlement about why the Americans

had suddenly become annoyed. (See story, Page 3.)

There has been no change in the pricing policy of the Canadian wheat board and none is anticipated, Trade Minister Sharp told the House of Commons.

Aides said the trade minister planned to telephone U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman later in the day to seek some clarification. Views of the U.S. agriculture department were made known to the external affairs department here by the U.S. embassy, but Canadian sources hesitated to call it an American protest.

OVER PLANT

The U.S. says Canada seeks to keep world prices down at a time when they should be rising and Canadian officials say this is in the long-term benefit of the North American farmer who might otherwise over-plant and busy along another surplus problem.

Even with brisk exports, Canada expects to have a surplus of about 500,000,000 bushels at the end of the current crop year next July 31—thanks to the record wheat harvest of nearly 720,000,000 bushels.

FOR DELIVERY

Further, the U.S. seems suddenly concerned about the Canadian wheat board practice of selling wheat at existing prices for delivery over the next few months.

For example, the record $300,000,000 Russian wheat purchase is on this format. The two agreements with Red China have operated through individual separate contracts from time to time, charging current prices in the individual contracts for wheat to be delivered over two or three months.

SOLD TO JAPAN

American anger is believed to have leaped when grain was sold to Japan recently at current prices for later delivery. This is regarded by the Americans apparently as a piling action on wheat, which they would like to see increase in price as demand continues brisk.

Unheard-of role is played by a shocked Clara Taylor, 1982 Canadian Dairy Princess, while equally surprised Mrs. D. S. McFadden looks on. However Mrs. O'Leary hung onto the lamp and no fire ensued. Event took place during parade in Victoria marking fire prevention week, yesterday. (See Page 2—William A. Boucher)

Great Flood

TOWNS VANISH

BELLUNO, Italy (AP)—The 573-foot-high Vaiont Dam collapsed under the weight of torrential rains and mountain landslides Wednesday night, and rescue officials estimated hundreds and possibly thousands were killed.

The collapse of the third highest concrete dam in the world sent millions of tons of stored up water over sleeping communities in the Piave River Valley of northeast Italy.

All Parties

Trustee Action Backed

OTTAWA (CP) — Dropping normal rules, the Commons Wednesday swung into speedy action behind the government to consider legislation that would impose a five-year, all-powerful trusteeship over maritime unions in Canada.

Appealing for all-party backing for the unprecedented intervention by government in union affairs, Labor Minister MacEachen warned that the Great Lakes situation "may grow worse before it gets better."

THE ONLY WAY

The three-man trusteeship was proposed by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of Vancouver as the only way of cleaning up lawlessness, corruption, violence and strife blamed on the Seafarers' International Union of Canada and its "ferocious, dishonest, greedy, power-hungry" president, Hal C. Banks.

Spokesmen for the Conservative, Social Credit and New Democratic parties immediately

Police here, 10 miles south of the dam, first said the 573-foot dam, third highest concrete dam in the world, had collapsed.

But later reports said a gigantic landslide rolling off an adjacent mountain had plunged into the reservoir behind the dam and pushed thousands of tons of water over the top.

Later, they said the dam had broken.

SEVERAL MORE

The Italian news agency ANSA said first reports were that at least several scores of people were killed.

Interior Minister Mariano Rumor in Rome ordered all military and police forces in the stricken area to rush to aid of the victims.

The dam, finished in 1960 was a high, tapered structure narrowing to a thin base. It was not on the river itself but held back water in a side reservoir.

HALF A DOZEN

At least a half-dozen other communities in the immediate area about 10 miles north of here were listed in the first reports as having been hit.

Dock Strike

No Peace in Sight

MONTREAL (CP) — Longshoremen angrily rejected strike settlement proposals Wednesday, a day of rapid-fire developments in the trade-strangling walkout.

While ships, some of them slated to carry wheat to Russia, queued up at anchorages in Montreal and Quebec, these were some of the developments:

SIT DOWN

1. Judge Rene Lippe, federal mediator whose proposals were rejected by the strikers at a mass meeting, invited representatives of the longshoremen and of the Shipping Federation of Canada to sit down with him again at the bargaining table.

2. Gangs of longshoremen roamed through the Montreal harbor area casting off the mooring lines of ships at docks and ordering them to move to mid-river anchorages downstream. Police eventually cleared the gangs from the waterfront.

3. The longshoremen appealed to the international offices of their union to order sympathy strikes in Saint John, N.B., and Halifax.

4. Two large liners rode at anchor off Quebec City while

Peeved Passengers Await Debarkation

QUEBEC (CP)—Capt. W. S. (Bill) Main, skipper of the Empress of Canada, says his passengers "are getting a bit peeved" about a delay in debarkation caused by the St. Lawrence River dock strike.

The pride of the Canadian Pacific Steamships Atlantic fleet was anchored Wednesday night about 15 miles downstream from the harbor here. Aboard were 400 passengers from Europe.

The 27,000-ton vessel made an attempt to dock Tuesday but it was unsuccessful. Striking stevedores lined the pier and prevented the ship's seamen from handling the mooring lines.

Capt. Main moved away to an anchorage off the island of Orleans and said in a ship-

to-shore telephone interview: "We'll have to wait here until the strike ends."

A spokesman for the shipping line said there are supplies aboard to last 100 days if necessary.

"There's plenty of good food and good drink."

The passengers, he said, are spending their time at the normal shipboard pleasures, movies, dancing and deck sports when the weather permits.

No estimate was available on the daily cost of the delay to the company.

Jacque's Yacht Fails to Arrive

LEVKOS ISLAND, Greece (AP)—The whereabouts of the yacht Christina, carrying Mrs. John F. Kennedy on a vacation cruise, became a mystery Wednesday night.

There had been reports the vessel would come to this Ionian Sea island, but she did not appear.

Tipster Shows Way To Terror Bomb

MONTREAL (UPI) — Police found a terrorist bomb late Wednesday in the post office of the residential suburb of Ville Jacques Cartier, and detonated it safely.

Acting on an anonymous telephone tip, police found the bomb in a small front office in the Canada postal building. Detective F. Ritchie whisked the package to a nearby vacant lot, where it was touched off under protective matting and "in a big blue flame" by construction company explosives experts.

"I saw the package as soon as I went in the building," Ritchie said. "But I didn't know how much time was left before it went off. I took a chance, and I was lucky."

Ritchie said the words "thermostat bomb" were scrawled on one side of the package, and the letters RQL, written on the other. RQL was believed to stand for Rassemblement Quebec Libre, a militant separatist group that

Tenth of Second

Earth to Pause On October 31

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The earth is slowing down fast. So fast, in fact, that world's finest timekeepers are going to have to set the hands of their clocks back a tenth of a second.

Announcement of the clock adjustment was made jointly yesterday by the National Bureau of Standards and the Naval Observatory.

Eight other nations with whom the United States has agreement on what time it is will make the same adjustment. The effective moment is "Zero Hours Universal Time November 1, 1963," or 3 p.m. Pacific Standard Time Oct. 31.

The whirling globe, for reasons unknown, speeds up or slows down its rotational rate from time to time. The period of rotation, as determined by astronomical observations, can be accurately clocked by atomic time pieces first developed in 1955.

Both the U.S. Navy and the bureau use atomic clocks as master controls for the time standards they broadcast periodically for the benefit of scientists and navigators all over the world.

Canada Just Like Cuba, Says Green

Warhead Shift 'Tragic Blunder'

The government's decision to give the U.S. permission to store defensive nuclear warheads in its Canadian-based bases was termed "a tragic blunder" last night by former Conservative external affairs minister Howard Green. (See story, Page 2.)

He told the Colonist in a telephone interview the move will put Canada in the same position with regard to the U.S. as Cuba was last fall when the Russians installed nuclear weapons on Cuban territory.

"The move is another tragic blunder by the present government. It comes at a time when there is a lessening of tension in the world brought about by the agreement to end nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space," Mr. Green said.

He said the foreign ministers of the three nuclear powers more recently announced their countries will not use outer space for launching nuclear weapons.

"Both these steps were advocated by the former Conservative government and under our (Conservative) government Canada took the lead in trying to bring about a reduction in world tension," Mr. Green said.

He charged the Pearson government has moved in the opposite direction, first by getting nuclear warheads for Canadian forces and now by allowing U.S. forces to store their own nuclear weapons in Canada.

"It is obvious Canada will have no control over the use of these warheads by the American forces and Mr. Pearson's latest action has put our country in very much the same position with regard to the United States as Cuba was last fall when the Russians installed nuclear weapons on Cuban territory."

Britain Puts New Bite In Sleeping Scotsman

LONDON (UPI) — National Health Service officials disclosed yesterday they had approved a new set of false teeth for a Scotsman who swallowed his old ones while sleeping.

Wheat War Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States threatened Wednesday to launch a trade war against Canada because of Canada's policy of offering long-range fixed prices in order to sew up big wheat contracts with both Communist and democratic countries.

A U.S. agriculture department spokesman said the American government has officially protested Canadian policies in the strongest terms. He made clear the U.S. is considering a variety of measures that could injure Canadian wheat sales for years ahead.

He explained that, with indications of a world wheat shortage this year, the U.S. concluded world prices might have drifted upwards by as much as 15 cents a bushel.

Instead, Canada sold wheat to Red China and Russia at six cents a bushel below the prevailing summer world price. However, what tried the U.S. most was the alleged subterfuge by which Canada obtained a slice of the Japanese wheat market.

Without tipping the U.S. which had spent money promoting the Japanese market for wheat, the Canadians allegedly negotiated wheat at about 800,000 tons of wheat at about five cents a bushel above the price asked the Soviet Union.

U.S. Newfoundland Bases

Warheads in Canada

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pearson announced Wednesday in the Commons that Canada has given the United States permission to store defensive nuclear warheads for jet interceptors at the American bases at Goose Bay, Labrador, and Harmon Field, Nfld.

All three opposition leaders complained that the new agreement, like the Aug. 16 Canada-U.S. nuclear custody-and-control arrangement covering Canadian forces, will not be made public.

SO SKETCHY
Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the available information is so sketchy that MPs cannot know whether "the sovereignty of Canada is protected or whether Canada is placed in a subservient position."

He said Mr. Pearson had promised to negotiate out of a nuclear role for Canada but that the government is spending millions of dollars for storage of nuclear warheads in this country.

ANOTHER LINK
T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said the new agreement "forges another link in the chain which now is binding Canada to the U.S. as a military satellite." Canada was being "boxed more and more into a nuclear role."

Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, said full information on the arrangement should be given to the Commons defense committee. The government should be pushing ahead with a non-nuclear mobile defense force.

Mr. Pearson said it would be "quite improper" to make the agreement public for security reasons.

He said there is adequate provision for joint control over the nuclear warheads at the U.S. leased bases. The agreement was based substantially on a draft prepared by the former Conservative government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said hotly this latter statement was not in accord with the facts.

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — "I never miss," Hamilton marksman John Csepelyha said Wednesday after he had killed a squirrel from 18 paces with his .22 rifle.

He didn't miss the squirrel, and he didn't miss two windows, two "priceless" pieces of 20-year-old china and a plaster wall.

Ocean Spells Doom For Raging Flora

MIAMI (UPI) — Hurricane Flora, one of the most savage destroyers in history, raced toward its doom in the open Atlantic last night and the Caribbean counted its dead in the thousands.

The death toll the mighty storm left on Cuba and Haiti may never be known, but reports indicated it may be higher than 9,000. Damage estimates approached $500,000,000.

Flora flailed the Atlantic with 115-mile-an-hour winds, and a weather forecaster predicted: "Two more days, then the cold air will kill her."

Meantime, the Fidel Castro regime, hurling new defiance at the U.S. in the wake of Flora's devastation, warned American "imperialists" and Cuban exiles not to attempt a new invasion of the island.

Dynamite Case Maximum Terms Birmingham Sequel

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Maximum sentences were imposed by a city judge yesterday on two white men accused of illegally possessing dynamite during recent racial bombings.

Judge Earl Langner convicted Robert Chambliss, 58, and John Hall, 35, sentenced each to six months in jail and fined them $100 apiece.

The judgment was the same as that handed down Tuesday for Charles Cagle, 22.

The three men, all with Ku Klux Klan backgrounds, were arrested in the wake of several racial bombings including one which killed four Negro girls as they attended Sunday school.

Negroes Flee Tear Gas
PLAQUEMINE, La. (AP) — Police raided a Negro church with tear gas yesterday, after breaking up an attempted teenagers' "sit-in" at a white high school, with tear gas and electric cattle prods.

A tear gas grenade thrown into Freedom Rock Baptist Church brought Negroes swarming out through doors and windows. Police pursued them for blocks in all directions, throwing tear gas grenades.

Berlin Wall For Wheat?

Retiring West German Chancellor, seen here with successor Ludwig Erhard, yesterday urged the West demand the Soviets pull down the Berlin Wall and give other concessions as the price of obtaining wheat and other foodstuffs. — (AP Photofax).

Riot In Rome

ROME (UPI) — A mob of about 20,000 construction workers fought riot police in the streets Wednesday, pitting cobblestones and other improvised weapons against tear gas and clubs in one of the worst outbreaks of violence here in 15 years.

Officials said there were many injured and more arrested. The workers were demonstrating against building ers who had announced a six-day suspension of construction in protest against taxes.

$300 Day Too Much

Law Helps Those Who...

ADRIAN ROY
... an experience

By MIKE GADSBY

When Adrian Roy decided hiring a lawyer was too expensive, he borrowed some law books from the Saanich police and set about preparing his own defence.

Roy is on trial in B.C. Assize Court on a charge of possession of stolen goods in connection with a police raid to his home April 27.

"I hired a lawyer for a short time,"

said Roy, "but he said he would charge me $300 a day to defend me. I can't afford that kind of money, so I decided to do it myself."

"I had to sell my car to pay off what I owed him when I discharged him."

Roy said he sits up until 1 or 2 a.m. every night studying transcripts and law, and preparing his cross-examination for the next day's proceedings.

Although he is outwardly calm and at ease in court, Roy says he is not enjoying his dual role, but admits it is "quite an experience."

Always good-natured and amiable, with police and courtroom officials, Roy says it wouldn't help him any to hold grudges or present a sour face to the court.

"There's a bright side to everything," he says, "this way I'm saving myself $300 a day."

$10,000,000 Bridge In Nanaimo's 'Vision'

By PETER CARTER-PAGE

NANAIMO—A $10,000,000 bridge linking Nanaimo with Gabriola Island, an hourly ferry service from a ferry terminal at Silva Bay to Point Grey—this is the far-sighted vision of many Nanaimo residents and business men who feel it would make Nanaimo once again the hub city of the Island.

Charles Lenhart, Nanaimo realtor, originator of the idea, says that such a bridge and service would be feasible and practical. Engineers have already inspected sites for ferry terminals at Point Grey and Silva Bay and locations for the bridge, and rough estimates have been drawn up.

He points out that whereas a bridge would cost approximately $10,000,000, the two new ferries which are planned for the present route will cost $7,000,000 just to begin with, not taking into account the future running costs of four ferries instead of the present two which would suffice if the bridge were to be built.

Transport Problem

Mr. Lenhart thinks that this is the only way to solve the transport problem between Nanaimo and the mainland. The present service is inadequate in normal times but during the tourist season it becomes acute and is a bad advertisement for the Island, he said, as it involves hours of waiting for ferry space on both sides of the run.

Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood, whose seat is still unsettled, said before the recent election, that he was most interested in the idea and intended to investigate the feasibility of the route.

Highways Minister Gagliardi said the matter of a bridge was on his desk.

Mayor Pete Maffeo came out in favor of anything that would bring Vancouver closer to Nanaimo.

Dave Jones, president of the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce, is personally in favor of the idea, but the matter hasn't been brought up officially in the chamber. He feels that if such a bridge is contemplated it must be placed before the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island as it would affect the whole of the Island.

Stupich Would Help

Dave Stupich, now leading the race as newly-elected MLA for Nanaimo, says that although he knows little about the proposed route would have many advantages, both to Vancouver and Nanaimo.

Traffic would be diverted from already overcrowded Horseshoe Bay and brought nearer to the heart of Vancouver. Travel time between the two cities would be cut by an hour, as only 18 miles instead of 36 would have to be covered by ferry.

If at first, toll had to be charged on the bridge, this would be offset by lower ferry charges. A further important advantage would be reduced freight charges on foodstuffs and other commodities.

When the new government meets, the Gabriola-Nanaimo bridge idea will be strongly pursued by its advocates.

Copter Forced Down But No One Hurt

GALIANO—Two men escaped injury Tuesday afternoon when their two-place helicopter made a forced landing in a grove of trees on Montague Hill, Galiano Island.

Pilot John Anderson and surveyor Robert Hubbard, both of Vancouver, were aboard the Okanagan Helicopters craft, surveying lines for B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

Tribal Alliance Formed To Fight Fines

DUNCAN—Determined to win an appeal for two convicted Indians from the Nanaimo district, Clifford White and David Bob, who were fined $100 each in Nanaimo police court for possession of six deer carcasses out of season, Indian bands have formed the Lower Vancouver Island Allied Tribes.

Wednesday night 50 representatives from different tribes met at the long house at Duncan and officers were elected.

They are Chief Wilson Bob of Nanaimo, president; Ross Modeste of Cowichan, vice-president; Ed Elliott, Sr., of Cowichan, treasurer, and Chief Douglas White of Nanaimo, trustee.

Joe Elliott of the Cowichan band said the organization's only concern is to raise money to fight the appeal.

THREE GUESTS
Mrs. Maile Hurley of Vancouver, Thomas Berger, a Vancouver lawyer, and Guy Williams, president of the B.C. Native Brotherhood, attended the meeting as guests.

The Indians contend century-old treaties signed by different Vancouver Island Indian chiefs and Sir James Douglas in 1852 still give them the privilege to hunt at liberty over unoccupied land.

Courtenay Council

New City Hall Vetoed

COURTENAY—A proposed city hall has been rejected by city council as unnecessary for the foreseeable future.

Council approved a report of a special committee headed by Ald. Ken Willis which said the present hall is on an ideal site and serves present needs.

Ald. Willis said an investigation of costs produced estimates as high as $195,000.

FIGURES GIVEN
Government and winter works grants would total only $63,000, leaving $132,000 to be paid by the city toward the proposed city hall and health centre.

He said the present hall could be altered or expanded when necessary at a fraction of the cost.

"A new health centre probably is needed but tying it in with a new city hall at this time is a case of the tail wagging the dog," Ald. Willis said.

Cavalcade Delay Preferred

PORT ALBERNI—Bamfield Chamber of Commerce would prefer postponement until spring of a proposed goodwill expedition over the new road, expected to be completed in about 10 days according to reports of chamber members here.

At the regular meeting of Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce several members reported on conversations with Bamfield residents in which doubts were expressed as to the ability to handle several hundred visitors at this time.

The executive of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island had been considering a cavalcade with all member chambers participating.

According to reports the Bamfield chamber would prefer that the trip take place next May.

Fascination With Automation

So these bits of wire make this thing work, do they, seems to be the question asked by fourth year arts students, Eva Bligh, 21, of 88 Midland Road, and Marjorie Howell, 22, of 2000 Topp Avenue, as they group around the wiring of an automatic machine, part of Victoria University's new electronic brain which arrived yesterday. — (Robin Clarke).

Alberni Men

Two Diving For Canada

PORT ALBERNI—Two Alberni Valley men will be on the team representing Canada in the world spear-fishing competition beginning Dec. 10 in Rio de Janeiro.

Armand Paquette, 27, and Ken Styan, 28, are in training for the event, and Alberni Valley Skin Diving Club is helping raise funds to pay expenses of the two members.

Paquette and Styan will join Allan Hook and Ray Linden of Victoria and coach Phil Newton of Vancouver for the trip by TCA to South America. They hope to spend a week or so training in the Brazilian waters prior to start of the competition.

LARGE FIRMS
TCA has donated transportation for the Canadian team and various large firms will be approached to help with the expenses of the men.

Fifteen nations have entered teams in the contest. Italian, Japanese and French are among the divers who will congregate from around the world to take part. Most teams will go to Rio well in advance of the competition in order to familiarize themselves with the water, the fish life in the area.

NEWCOMERS
The two Valley men, who have been scuba diving for six months, are conservative newcomers to skinning.

Two years ago they tried diving without tanks and since then have done well in Vancouver Island meets. Paquette and Styan were among B.C. representatives at the U.S. international competitions early this summer. Their team from the Island Skin Diving Council placed fifth among all competitors and first among Canadian entries.

Comox Valley Joins To Seek Prison

COURTENAY—City council has offered to co-operate with Cumberland council and Chamber of Commerce on joint promotion of the district as a site for a new maximum security prison.

So far, Courtenay and Cumberland have presented separate briefs and choices of sites. Council agreed the separate promotions with Victoria would not be as effective as a district approach.

Council proposed Cumberland had a meeting of district council and Chamber members to discuss a joint promotion program.

More Firms Join New Chamber

LAKE COWICHAN—The recently-formed Cowichan Lake District Chamber of Commerce is in the process of becoming a chartered organization and so far the membership consists of 35, says Chamber secretary John Coleman.

Other officers, to be installed at a ceremony next February, are: E. T. M. McBride, president; D. Braithwaite, vice-president; J. Reiley, treasurer.

LOGGING FIRMS
Mr. Coleman said among the members are at least two large logging companies. Western Forest Industries at Honeycomb Bay and Hillcrest Lumber Company at Measachie Lake; the CPE, small merchants and other logging firms.

Mr. Coleman said some were previously members of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

He said business people in the Cowichan Lake area believe the district is sufficiently populated to justify a separate Chamber of Commerce.

"Although the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce did a good job we might be able to do better, especially because our members have been good, there are still more donations to come in and call-backs to be made."

The residential target is $14,380 or 23 per cent of the total United Appeal target of $62,504.

Last year the campaign did not reach its target but they are much more hopeful this year. Anyone who wishes to make a donation or who has been missed by the canvass is invited to phone SK3-8571. Sixteen agencies of the Nanaimo Appeal will herald.

Appeal Goes Well In Nanaimo Area

NANAIMO—Mrs. Mega McDougall, campaign co-chairman, and Mrs. Bernice Harding, canvass chairman of the United Appeal, are well pleased with the results so far of the two-day residential canvass blitz.

Only 13 incomplete returns have been made so far and they have already reached 16.6 per cent of the total figure set for homes. Reception to canvassers has been good, there are still more donations to

Roy Case

Shippers Drivers Testify

Events leading up to the mysterious disappearance of a series of articles were discussed at the trial of Adrian Roy in B.C. Assize Court yesterday by shippers, salesmen and truck drivers who had handled the goods.

Roy is appearing on a charge of possession of stolen goods. Exhibits in the case were found at his home at Glen Lake Road in a police raid last April 27.

Roy is acting in his own defence.

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie is trying to establish that the goods were stolen, in presenting his case against Roy. He is also dealing with articles allegedly sold by Roy to other people.

DISAPPEARED

Presented in evidence so far have been a power mower which witnesses said disappeared from a sidewalk display in front of the Marshall Wells store, 724 Port; a power saw from a construction site about half a mile from Roy's home on March 25, and a tape recorder from a loading platform at the Douglas Street bus depot on Dec. 5.

Other articles mentioned were three boxes of toys which disappeared from the T. Eaton Co. shortly before Christmas; a countertop stove; an electric drill, and six suits.

FOUR SHIRTS

Norman Walker, 3657 Happy Valley Road, testified he had purchased an electric drill for $25 from Roy at Roy's home early this year. He said he also bought four sports shirts from him about three weeks later, for which he paid $12.

Grant Grills, Roy's landlord, who occupies the east side of the duplex in which Roy also lives, said he had a lot of his possessions stored in the attic which is common to both sides of the duplex.

POLICE RAID

He said he had assisted police in separating his goods from those of Roy on the day of the police raid.

Grills said he was kept busy making sure police didn't remove any of his goods from the property.

"There were about four or five of them running here and there, and I kept my butt watching them," he said. "Once I had to stop them when they were making off with a bundle of my lumber."

SMALL TREE

Asked by Roy if police had done any damage on the property, Grills said they had damaged a small tree and dumped over a bucket of garbage.

Several witnesses admitted under cross-examination by Roy that articles which disappeared could conceivably have been sold, with no record of the sale having been made.

All witnesses have now been called in the case, and today's session will be devoted to summaries by the defence and the prosecution, and Mr. Justice W. W. McInnes' charge to the jury.

Gleaners Grateful

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—The image of a famous French painting, which was created more than 100 years ago by Jean Francois Millet, has found its way across the many thousand of miles to the Cowichan Valley. Its title is The Gleaners, and it depicts a group of women wandering across a harvested field in search of grain left over among the stubble.

The original hangs in The Louvre in Paris but The Gleaners, by the poor farmer's son from Normandy, has become a symbol in many parts of the world.

Despite its age, it tells of another completed circle of life—after rich, hot summer days, the sweet sadness of the fall settling over the land.

Perhaps not well known in the Canadian west, gleaners can still be observed in the farming communities of the old lands.

Another Circle Complete

show their gratitude at Thanksgiving.

Once more nature is giving freely before the first frost puts all growth to sleep.

Somewhere a farmer is sifting next year's seed tenderly through his work-worn hands, and perhaps he feels the holy fertility of thousands of little fruits.

He knows his plow next spring will prepare the cradle for another harvest.

The tiny green shoots will grow into millions of golden stalks, sculptured clouds in the deep blue summer skies will witness him harvest, and once more the clear, crisp mornings will remind to bring his offering to the altar.

In many thousand churches Thanksgiving will be celebrated with bells ringing over the still countryside.

But perhaps, on some lonely field, a gleaner woman will gather food for her family as was done 100 years ago, and she will know everything should be received with sincere gratitude.

They will always exist—here in a different form and abroad in the old image of bent backs, with searching hands close to the soil.

In any case the gleaners will follow the old custom and

Storm-Torn Centre Getting New Runway

McCHORD, Wash. (AP)—The U.S. air force said Wednesday it will fly 350,000 tons of pierced steel planking to storm-battered Point Barrow, Alaska, dropping it so people can lay out a new runway for relief supplies. An Arctic gale last week wrecked the runway, 200 homes and water and fuel supplies.

State Blocks Frozen Eggs

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Washington State has clamped an embargo on more than 250,000 pounds of frozen egg products suspected of containing salmonella organisms. Joe Dwyer, state director of agriculture, said Wednesday health officials traced the egg products to the Commercial Creamery in Spokane after an outbreak of salmonella food infection at Whitworth College in Spokane last month.

Meetings Today In Victoria

- Very Rev. Dr. J. L. W. McLean will speak on the theme of Thanksgiving at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Victoria, Se. Beaver, in the Tally-Ho Hotel at 7:30 a.m.
- Warratt Kennedy will address the Rotary Club of Victoria in the Empress Hotel at 12:10 p.m.

- The Victoria Cosmopolitan Club will meet in the Ingham Hotel at 6:45 p.m.

Music Group Lowers Age Limit

Age limit has been lowered to 18 from 21 by the Studio Group of the Victoria Musical Art Society to give younger members a chance to gain experience in performing before an audience. A change in the constitution was made at the group's first meeting of the season when the program consisted of madrigal singing by Carles Palmer's choir; a string quartet under the direction of Mrs. Julia Hunt and lyric recitations by Mrs. Gail Campbell.

Sugar Up Again

MONTREAL (CP)—Three major sugar refineries—St. Lawrence, Canada and Dominion and Atlantic—Wednesday announced a 25-cent increase in the wholesale price of refined sugar, bringing it to $15.15 a 100-pound bag.

Dr. E. A. Ager of the state health department said state and local health officials have checked and confirmed cases of salmonella in six other centres, including Seattle. Most of the affected persons were sent to hospital. He said the infection could be fatal. Dr. Ager said an investigation at Whitworth College indicated more than 50 college people became ill after eating pies topped with meringue made from egg whites. He said the eggs were traced back to the Spokane creamery.

Accused Defends Self

ADRIAN ROY
... an experience

When Adrian Roy decided hiring a lawyer was too expensive, he borrowed some law books from the Saanich police and set about preparing his own defence.

Roy is on trial in B.C. Assize Court on a charge of possession of stolen goods in connection with a police raid to his home April 27.

"I hired a lawyer for a short time,"

said Roy, "but he said he would charge me $300 a day to defend me. I can't afford that kind of money, so I decided to do it myself."

"I had to sell my car to pay off what I owed him when I discharged him."

Roy said he sits up until 1 or 2 a.m. every night studying transcripts and law, and preparing his cross-examination for the next day's proceedings.

Although he is outwardly calm and at ease in court, Roy says he is not enjoying his dual role, but admits it is "quite an experience."

Always good-natured and amiable, with police and courtroom officials, Roy says it wouldn't help him any to hold grudges or present a sour face to the court.

"There's a bright side to everything," he says, "this way I'm saving myself $300 a day."

$10,000,000 Bridge In Nanaimo's 'Vision'

By PETER CARTER-PAGE

NANAIMO—A $10,000,000 bridge linking Nanaimo with Gabriola Island, an hourly ferry service from a ferry terminal at Silva Bay to Point Grey—this is the far-sighted vision of many Nanaimo residents and business men who feel it would make Nanaimo once again the hub city of the Island.

Charles Lenhart, Nanaimo realtor, originator of the idea, says that such a bridge and service would be feasible and practical. Engineers have already inspected sites for ferry terminals at Point Grey and Silva Bay and locations for the bridge, and rough estimates have been drawn up.

He points out that whereas a bridge would cost approximately $10,000,000, the two new ferries which are planned for the present route will cost $7,000,000 just to begin with, not taking into account the future running costs of four ferries instead of the present two which would suffice if the bridge were to be built.

Transport Problem

Mr. Lenhart thinks that this is the only way to solve the transport problem between Nanaimo and the mainland.

The present service is inadequate in normal times but during the tourist season it becomes acute and is a bad advertisement for the Island, he said, as it involves hours of waiting for ferry space on both sides of the run.

Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood, whose seat is still unsettled, said before the recent election, that he was most interested in the idea and intended to investigate the feasibility of the route.

Highways Minister Gagliardi said the matter of a bridge was on his desk.

Mayor Pete Maffeo came out in favor of anything that would bring Vancouver closer to Nanaimo.

Dave Jones, president of the Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce, is personally in favor of the idea, but the matter hasn't been brought up officially in the chamber. He feels that if such a bridge is contemplated it must be placed before the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island as it would affect the whole of the Island.

Stupich Would Help

Dave Stupich, now leading the race as newly-elected MLA for Nanaimo, says that although he knows little about the proposal at the moment, he would wholeheartedly support any practical suggestion for improving communications with Vancouver.

Property owners on Gabriola Island are reported to be willing to give the land required

Miss Nancy Stuble of Oliver was winner of a $250 scholarship awarded by the provincial board of British Columbia Women's Institutes. The board voted to award this third scholarship at a meeting held in the Victoria office Wednesday morning.

Previous scholarships were awarded to Donna K. Eaton, Francois Lake, and Ralph McQueen, Dawson Creek.

Donation of $100 was also voted for relief of the 300,000 made homeless by cyclone and tidal wave in Pakistan.

A second edition of the WI centennial cook book has proved so successful that board members decided to set up a centennial scholarship from the proceeds.

It was reported that the West Indian project was well under way, with 2,120 books already sent to the West Indies to help in formation of new libraries.

Also growing is the northern expansion project, designed to form institutes in the Mackenzie district and to bring out Indian and Eskimo girls in order to train them in homemaking, home nursing, teaching and leadership so that they can return to their communities as future leaders.

The board has received 26 samplers and seven oil paintings from provincial institutes which will be considered for entry in the Tweedsmuir competition, which is triennial and embodies handicrafts, village work and citizenship. One-act plays on village history and municipal work are also being entered. Deadline for this competition is Dec. 15.

In celebration of Canada's centennial, B.C. institutes will join other provinces in a Canadian mosaic project which will see an illustrated book on Canadian history being compiled in provincial sections.

AT MEETING

Deadline for this project is January, 1965. On completion of this book, one copy will be sent to Queen Elizabeth and the other donated to the national library at Ottawa.

All board members were in attendance at yesterday's meeting. They are Mrs. R. C. Palmer, Kelowna, president; Mrs. R. Partington, Francois Lake;

Mrs. E. G. Woodward, Brentwood Bay; Mrs. J. S. Scott, Robson; Mrs. F. M. Plant, Williams Lake; Mrs. J. H. McMillan, Qualicum Beach; Mrs. Lyle Braden, Dawson Creek; Mrs. H. C. Ford, Tappen, and Miss Patricia Holden, Victoria.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Philip Holmes, who has spent the past week in Winnipeg, will return to Victoria on Friday.

Shield Presented

Mr. A. T. Arkell of Woodward's Stores presented the Woodward Shield to the 11th Victoria Company, Girl Guides, under the leadership of Mrs. J. T. Richards on Wednesday. The runners-up were 3rd Victoria Company, leader Mrs. J. H. Ledger.

This award is presented annually to the company showing itself proficient in some aspect of Guide activity. Each year a different aspect is chosen. Companies from Greater Victoria, Saanich and Juan de Fuca (Sooke) Divisions are eligible. This year the competition was for campfire singing and was held on June 1st in St. Barnabas Hall. Mrs. E. W. Finch-Noyes judged the competition. On receiving their respective citations both leaders paid tribute to the training given to the Guides by their predecessors, Mrs. S. J. Ashford of the 11th Company and Mrs. T. C. Henze of the 3rd Company.

Easy to Spot

If He Flirts He's Married

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP) — Girls, can you spot a married man on sight?

British girls can. At least a lot of them say they can.

If true, possibly it's nature's way of compensating for the fact that in Britain husbands are not marked men—they don't wear wedding rings.

In fact a wedding ring is such a rarity with men that Dame Rebecca West, author and journalist, remarked in her account of a recent sensational court trial the bewigged judge was wearing one.

Romany Bala of The Daily Herald took it from there. A ring isn't necessary for a woman to spot a married man, she wrote.

"As any woman will tell you, it has nothing to do with wearing a ring or not. Married men are either quietly confident or sadly resigned to their lot."

— Her acid test is the mention of children. "The chap who has any will usually react to the mention of first teeth, first steps and first term at school."

And Miss Bain also says married men flirt more than bachelors.

"These married chaps can say quite outrageous things, knowing it's all a game and they are soon catching the train home to wife and children."

"It flatters their vanity. But they mustn't imagine we are fooled."

Miss Bain invited her readers to send in their favorite test for spotting married men. A librarian wrote she could spot a husband not by the looks he borrowed but by the fact he wiped his feet on the mat before entering.

A former salesgirl said married men carefully check their change—bachelors stuff it into their pockets with hardly a glance.

Another relied on a sure test handed down to her by her mother—"If his ears droop, he's married." Another said most pipe-smoking men were married.

One woman wrote that all married men have a "prisoner-of-war-look—they look puzzled as to how they got caught."

And so, girls, if you spot a pipe-smoking man with drooping ears and a puzzled frown, who stands counting his change, it's 10-to-1 he's somebody's husband.

Wheat Sale Okay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Wednesday night approved the sale of U.S. wheat to Russia and Communist nations of Eastern Europe. He spoke in the terms of transactions ranging from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000.

This could mean disposal of perhaps 200,000,000 bushels of wheat at world prices through private channels.

Kennedy said the U.S. obviously would benefit. He ruled out any sales to Cuba or Communist China.

In anti-climactic fashion, the president made the long-expected announcement of a shift in U.S. policy toward trade with the Communists at a press conference.

Wheat Trouble

By ADON MACKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — United States criticism about Canadian wheat price patterns had authorities here puzzled Wednesday.

Concern whether the U.S. intends to launch a price war between the two main wheat exporting countries of the West was mixed with some puzzle about why the Americans had suddenly become annoyed. (See story, Page 3.) There has been no change in the pricing policy of the Canadian wheat board and none is anticipated, Trade Minister Sharp told the House of Commons.

Akies said the trade minister planned in telephone U.S. Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman later in the day to seek some clarification. Views of the U.S. agriculture department were made known to the external affairs department here by the U.S. embassy, but Canadian sources hesitated to call it an American protest.

OVER PLANT

The U.S. says Canada seeks to keep wheat prices down at a time when they should be rising and Canadian officials say this is in the long-term benefit of the North American farmer who might otherwise over-plant and hurry along another surplus problem.

Even with brisk exports, Canada expects to have a surplus of about 500,000,000 bushels at the end of the current crop year next July 31—thanks to the record wheat harvest of nearly 720,000,000 bushels.

FOR DELIVERY

Further, the U.S. seems suddenly concerned about the Canadian wheat board practice of selling wheat at existing prices for delivery over the next few months. For example, the record $500,000,000 Russian wheat purchase is on this format. The two agreements with Red China have operated through individual separate contracts from time to time, charging current prices in the individual contracts for wheat to be delivered over two or three months.

SOLD TO JAPAN

American anger is believed to have leaped when grain was sold to Japan recently at current prices for later delivery. This is regarded by the Americans apparently as a pegging action on wheat, which they would like to see increase in price as demand continues brisk.

History Repeats Itself

Portrait of history repeating itself shows "Mrs. O'Leary's Cow" of Chicago fire fame, kicking over the lantern, and "Mrs. O'Leary," too. Unrehearsed role is played by a shocked Clara Taylor, 1963 Canadian Dairy Princess, while equally surprised Mrs. D. S. McElattie looks on. However Mrs. O'Leary hung onto the lamp and no fire ensued. Event took place during parade in Victoria marking fire prevention week, yesterday. See Page 2.—(William A. Boucher.)

Tenth of Second

Time to Pause On October 31

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The earth is slowing down fast.

So fast, in fact, that world's finest timekeepers are going to have to set the hands of their clocks back a tenth of a second.

Announcement of the clock adjustment was made jointly yesterday by the National Bureau of Standards and the Naval Observatory.

Eight other nations with whom the United States has agreement on what time it will make the same adjustment. The effective moment is "Zero Hours Universal Time November 1, 1963," or 3 p.m. Pacific Standard Time Oct. 31.

The whirling globe, for reasons unknown, speeds up or slows down its rotational rate from time to time. The period of rotation, as determined by astronomical observations, can be accurately clocked by atomic time pieces first developed in 1955.

Both the U.S. Navy and the bureau use atomic clocks as master controls for the time standards they broadcast periodically for the benefit of scientists and navigators all over the world.

Canada Just Like Cuba, Says Green

Warhead Shift 'Tragic Blunder'

The government's decision to give the U.S. permission to store defensive nuclear warheads in its Canadian-based base was termed "a tragic blunder" last night by former Conservative external affairs minister Howard Green. (See story, Page 3.)

He told the Colonist in a telephone interview the move will put Canada in the same position with regard to the U.S. as Cuba was last fall when the Russians installed nuclear weapons on Cuban territory.

"The move is another tragic blunder by the present government. It comes at a time when there is a loosening of tension in the world brought about by the agreement to end nuclear tests in the atmosphere, under water and in outer space," Mr. Green said.

He said the foreign ministers of the three nuclear powers more recently announced their countries will not use outer space for launching nuclear weapons.

Both these steps were advocated by the former Conservative government and under our (Conservative) government Canada took the lead in trying to bring about a reduction in nuclear tension," Mr. Green said.

He charged the Pearson government has moved in the opposite direction, first by getting nuclear warheads for Canadian forces and now by allowing U.S. forces to store their own nuclear weapons in Canada.

"It is obvious Canada will have no control over the use of these warheads by the American forces and Mr. Pearson's latest action has put our country in very much the same position with regard to the United States as Cuba was last fall when the Russians installed nuclear weapons on Cuban territory."

DAM BREAKS TOWNS GONE

BELLUNO, Italy (AP)—A gigantic landslide smashed the 873-foot-high Vaiont Dam Wednesday night and a huge flood all but wiped out four towns with 4,300 residents in the Piave River valley of northeast Italy.

Officials said 300 bodies had been found by dawn after the collapse of the world's third highest concrete dam sent millions of tons of stored water over the sleeping towns.

Police here, 10 miles south of the dam, first said the 873-foot dam, first highest concrete dam in the world, had collapsed. But later reports said a gigantic landslide rolling off an adjacent mountain had plunged into the reservoir behind the dam and pushed thousands of tons of water over the top. Later, they said the dam had broken.

The flood swept away a building materials factory with supplies of potassium cyanide, making the Piave River a stream of poison.

Longarone, a community of 2,000 close to the dam, was reported by police here to have been completely submerged.

The Italian news agency ANSA said first reports were that at least several scores of people were killed.

The dam, finished in 1960 was a high, tapered structure narrowing to a thin base. It was not on the river itself but held back water in a side reservoir.

Dock Strike

No Peace in Sight

MONTREAL (CP) — Longshoremen angrily rejected strike - settlement proposals Wednesday, a day of rapid-fire developments in the trade-strangling walkout.

While ships, some of them slated to carry wheat to Russia, queued up at anchorages in Montreal and Quebec, these were some of the developments.

SIT DOWN

1. Judge René Lippe, federal mediator whose proposals were rejected by the strikers at a mass meeting, invited representatives of the longshoremen and of the Shipping Federation of Canada to sit down with him again at the bargaining table.

2. A gang of longshoremen roamed through the Montreal harbor area casting off the mooring lines of ships at docks and ordering them to move to mid-river anchorages downstream. Police eventually cleared the gangs from the waterfront.

3. The longshoremen appealed to the international offices of their union to order sympathy strikes in Saint John, N.B., and Halifax.

4. Two large liners rode at anchor off Quebec City while

Peeved Passengers Await Debarkation

QUEBEC (CP)—Capt. W. S. (Bill) Main, skipper of the Empress of Canada, says his passengers "are getting a bit peeved" about a delay in debarkation caused by the St. Lawrence River dock strike.

The pride of the Canadian Pacific Steamships Atlantic fleet was anchored Wednesday night about 13 miles downstream from the harbor here. Aboard were 400 passengers from Europe.

The 27,000-ton vessel made an attempt to dock Tuesday but it was unsuccessful. Striking stevedores lined the pier and prevented the ship's seamen from handling the mooring lines.

Capt. Main moved away to an anchorage off the island of Orleans and said in a ship-

to-shore telephone interview: "We'll have to wait here until the strike ends."

A spokesman for the shipping line said there are supplies aboard to last 100 days if necessary.

"There's plenty of good food and good drink," the passengers, he said, are spending their time at the normal shipboard pleasures, movies, dancing and deck sports when the weather permits.

No estimate was available on the daily cost of the delay to the company.

Tipster Shows Way To Terror Bomb

MONTREAL (UPI) — Police found a terrorist bomb late Wednesday in the post office of the residential suburb of Ville Jacques Cartier, and detonated it safely.

Acting on an anonymous telephone tip, police found the bomb in a small front office in the Canada postal building. Detective F. Ritchie whisked the package to a nearby vacant lot, where it was touched off under protective matting and "in a big blue flame" by construction company explosives experts.

"I saw the package as soon as I went in the building," Ritchie said. "But I didn't know how much time was left before it went off. I took a chance, and I was lucky."

Ritchie said the words "thermostat bomb" were scrawled on one side of the package, and the letters RQJ, written on the other. RQJ was believed to stand for Rasse-emblement Quebec Libre, a militant separatist group that
